Ev Sees Fast Action On Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois predicted Saturday the administration's voting rights bill will come out of the Senate Judiciary Committee without major changes, possibly before an April 9 deadline.

Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader, said in an interview he expects to offer half a dozen clarifying amendments. He added these would not alter the overall scope of the bill which he took a leading role in drafting.

While he did not discuss details, one of Dirksen's amendments is expected to make more specific the language he contends now permits the measure to be applied in some states which do not have voter literacy tests, as well as to states which do.

It is Dirksen's view that there is a technical provision for appointment of vote registrars which would apply in sections of Arkansas, Florida, Tennessee and Texas where racial discrimination in registration and voting can be demonstrated, even though the states have no literacy tests. He may try to spell this out specifically.

Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach said in response to questions by Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., Friday that the bill would not apply to Texas.

Dirksen said he would oppose a proposal by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., to write into the measure a section which would outlaw payment of poll taxes as a requirement for voting in state elections. The Constitution forbids such taxes in federal elections.

"I don't think a poll tax provision would be constitutional," Dirksen said. Katzenbach has taken the same position.

Senate and House committees will resume hearings on the voting rights measure next week. Dirksen said representatives of six governors will testify before the Senate committee.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., said in a report to constituents that President Johnson's action in proposing the pending legislation "encourages and abets mob violence."

"The provisions of the bill would allow the federal government to take over all voting functions from the states," he said. "It is aimed particularly at the South. I am not opposed to the registration of any citizen, if he qualifies under state laws. I am also of the strong belief that no discrimination should exist on account of race, color or creed."

"But I am unalterably opposed to any effort on the part of the federal government to go step in and establish voter qualifications."

RAY PAGE ISSUES BOOK TO TEACHERS ON COMMUNISM

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—State School Supt. Ray Page has issued a new manual to Illinois schools on teaching about totalitarian Communism.

The manual was prepared for his office by the Illinois Social Studies Curriculum Revision Committee on Comparative Political Systems.

After an 18-month study, the committee report said: "The study of modern totalitarianism in its varied forms should be an integral part of our social studies curriculum and should be taught within the regular subject matter courses of that specific area of the secondary school curriculum."

The committee said the solution for one school may be in no way fit the needs of another. Page said the report calls for an overall strengthening of the social studies curriculum. He said it emphasizes understanding the socio-political-economic situation in the United States.

Maxwell Taylor On Way To U.S. With Viet Report

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor headed for Washington Saturday night apparently with a good report on American-South Vietnamese air strikes in Communist North Viet Nam but with only fair things to say about the progress of the ground war in the South.

It was considered highly likely here that Taylor—on his second trip home since November—will raise the question of bringing in more U.S. troops to guard strategic installations. Two battalions of U.S. Marines are guarding the vital Da Nang base and reliable sources say Marine warplanes may be brought in to back them up.

Despite rigid security around Da Nang, Viet Cong frogmen slipped into the harbor Saturday and blew holes in the hull of a U.S. landing ship-tank tied up at a commercial dock. A cargo of supplies and vehicles had been unloaded.

Officials have expressed concern about the Saigon base and one at nearby Bien Hoa. Both are the responsibility of the South Vietnamese. Bien Hoa, just outside Saigon, fell under heavy mortar attack last year.

Taylor, however, is expected to bear a much more optimistic report than the one he carried home in November. (Continued On Page Nine)

Party Heads Favor Change In Primary

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The two major Illinois party chairmen personally favor moving the Illinois primary election from April to June.

But they won't commit themselves officially until county chairmen are sounded out.

Victor Smith of Robinson, Republican chairman, and his Democratic counterpart, James Roman of Chicago, both are looking for objections to streamlining campaigns. So far, they haven't found any.

They have not conferred with each other on the plan to cut two months from campaigning for the November general election.

An Illinois House Election Committee hearing on the bill by William Horsley, Springfield, will be about April 12. Roman and Smith will testify.

Local as well as state and national primary elections would be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in June, instead of in April. The bill would be effective next year.

Other dates in the election calendar—for doing such things as filing as a candidate—would be advanced in proportion.

Horsley said that under the bill Illinois would be the last major state to hold its primary before the August presidential nominating conventions.

This would make the Illinois primaries influential in presidential politics, Horsley said, especially for the party that did well in them. If an Illinois governor does a good job and has ambitions to be vice president or secretary of state, Horsley said, "he'd be in a position to wheel and deal."

Horsley changed his proposed primary date from September to June to permit delegates to the August conventions still to be elected in June.

This change removed an objection of Secretary of State Paul Powell.

Powell used to team up with Southern Illinois rural objectors to a September primary because it would coincide with a busy farm season.

Powell, who will not take a position this time, conceded a June primary would shorten campaigning. He said farmers are more adaptable because of modern machinery, roads, and autos.

Ronan said "that day is long gone" when candidates for state office must seek state wide exposure by appearing at a series of courthouse political meetings.

"We have bigger centralized meetings and television so you don't need the courthouse exposure. And you save two months campaign expense."

"No argument, not even a political argument," should last more than a couple of months," said Al Bernardi, executive secretary of the state Republican headquarters.

Charles Percy, GOP gubernatorial candidate last year, started campaigning at county fairs in mid-1963. A victor in the April primary last year, he was still campaigning in November last year.

In recent campaigns, political leaders have commented that an increasing popular complaint has risen about political advertising competing with television entertainment, including the state high school basketball tournament. It is staged annually in March.

At the courthouse Saturday, a minister said in a prayer: "She gave her life that freedom might be saved throughout this land."

A Toronto, Canada, minister, the Rev. Lawrence Duncan Heap, walked at the head of the line from the Browns Chapel A.M.E. church to the courthouse. The quiet, orderly line followed, two abreast, along a route prescribed by U.S. Dist. Judge Daniel H. Thomas of Mobile, who authorized the march.

About 125 of the 200 who left the church were Negroes. A motorcycle policeman and a state trooper car moved along the street with the marchers. A few white spectators stood along the 10-block route to the courthouse.

Speaking from the steps of the courthouse, James Orange, a Negro active in the civil rights drive, said: "We are gathered here for a few facts. We don't like what happened here the other night."

Klan Accuses FBI Of Bribe Attempt

BIRMINGHAM: Colle LeRoy Wilkins Jr. (hand-cuffed-center) appeared before the U. S. Commissioner Friday in connection with the death of a white civil rights worker, Mrs. Viola Gregg Liuzzo. Militarists Still Control Soviet Union

MOSCOW (AP)—Despite Kremlin talk of emphasizing consumer goods and raising the Soviet standard of living, the men who have made weapons as careers continue to direct the economy.

The chairman of the Supreme National Economic Council whose appointment was announced in Saturday's papers, Vladimir T. Novikov, made his reputation making armaments during World War II.

He succeeded Dmitry F. Ustinov, who was Stalin's appointee to run defense industries when Hitler invaded in 1941. Novikov, (Continued On Page Nine)

Criticize Johnson's Attack

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Ku Klux Klan leaders angrily accused the FBI on Saturday of trying to bribe one of four Klansmen charged with conspiracy in the night-killer killing of a white housewife who joined a civil rights march to the Capitol.

The charge was coupled with new criticism of President Johnson's stinging verbal attack on the robbed order when he disclosed the arrests Friday.

State agents worked toward possible murder charges in the Thursday night shooting death of Viola Gregg Liuzzo, 39, of Detroit. About 200 demonstrators marched at Selma in protest of the murder.

Allied Land Was Offered. Klan lawyer Matt H. Murphy Jr., retained by the Klan to defend the men, said at a news conference in Birmingham that the FBI offered 580 acres of land in Minnesota to Gary Tompkins Jr., 34, for information about the murder. Rowe is one of the four arrested.

FBI agent Everett Ingram of the Birmingham office declined comment. A Justice Department spokesman in Washington said the proper forum for comment "is in court."

Murphy said his clients were innocent. He added: "The four boys will be exonerated."

Robert M. Shelton Jr. of Tuscaloosa, imperial wizard of the United Klans, said the Klan put up $150,000 bonds for three of the men—including Rowe. The fourth was denied bail.

"We've had these trumped-up charges by the federal government before," Shelton said. He apologized for calling President Johnson a "damned liar" Friday and amended it by striking the profanity—"but the other part sticks."

The President had said the Klan used the rope, guns, tar and feathers to terrorize people. That was the charge that brought Shelton's reply.

Shelton March. The first demonstration over the highway slaying was staged at Selma. About 200 marchers led by a Canadian minister went to the courthouse and city hall in a solemn procession.

Memorial services were set for Sunday at Selma and nearby Marion. The Rev. Andrew Young of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, headed by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., said in Atlanta that a memorial vigil would be held at the slaying scene.

Young said the vigil is planned to coincide with private rites for Mrs. Liuzzo in Detroit on Tuesday. The pretty mother of five died in a hail of gunfire from a passing car on a lonely stretch of U.S. 80 about 25 miles west of here.

Gov. George W. Romney proclaimed a state of mourning Monday and Tuesday in Michigan.

He said: "This shocking murder can stand for all as an ironic symbol of the need to battle on for the cause for which she died and to ultimately insist that her death was not in vain."

An estimated 16,000 messages of condolence poured into the Liuzzo home where grieving Anthony Liuzzo, the husband, (Continued On Page Nine)

March In Selma Again

SELMA, Ala. (AP)—More than 200 white and Negro demonstrators, mostly young people, marched to the County Courthouse and to City Hall Saturday to show their resentment over the highway slaying of a white civil rights worker from Detroit.

It was the first street demonstration here since the start of a 50-mile march to Montgomery last Sunday.

Viola Gregg Liuzzo, 39, was cut down by a sniper's bullet Thursday night while operating a shuttle car to return the marchers from Montgomery to Selma.

At the courthouse Saturday, a minister said in a prayer: "She gave her life that freedom might be saved throughout this land."

A Toronto, Canada, minister, the Rev. Lawrence Duncan Heap, walked at the head of the line from the Browns Chapel A.M.E. church to the courthouse. The quiet, orderly line followed, two abreast, along a route prescribed by U.S. Dist. Judge Daniel H. Thomas of Mobile, who authorized the march.

Gas Only Portion Of Full Arsenal

WASHINGTON (AP)—Tear and nauseating gases, like those used in Viet Nam with an ensuing worldwide clamor, are only a mild and minor portion of the chemical arsenal possessed by Communist and non-Communist powers.

They make you cry and vomit, incapacitate you for a few minutes or hours. But compared with other weapons in the Chemical Biological Radiological—CBR—arsenal, they are almost benign.

Some of the others can kill almost instantly or bring a slow and straggling death.

Even those not fatally toxic, some psychochemical compounds, can reduce men temporarily to something approaching idiocy or produce an anesthetized sleep.

Many Types. Among the powers, the United States, Soviet Union and Red China have some or many of these types.

They were spawned first in Germany, which developed mustard, phosgene and chlorine toxic gases and used them on Allied forces in World War I.

From World War II, German laboratories came the first compounds for today's nerve gases.

They were not used in that war. But when the Nazi forces were defeated, the data and production equipment fell into the hands of the victors, including the Soviet Union and the United States.

The Soviet Union passed along to Red China supplies and help in setting up the Chinese Communist production of their own material. The Chinese Reds also may have captured some gas warfare material from the Japanese as World War II ended.

As both Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Secretary of State Dean Rusk have been emphasizing, the stuff used in Viet Nam was the least harmful of any of the CBR family of compounds. They are the tear and vomiting gases which McNamara says both police and military forces of the world use as riot control agents and which produce temporary effects ranging from three minutes up to two hours. They can be purchased commercially by anyone.

They were supplied to the South Vietnamese in the summer of 1962, but not used until last January, then again on two subsequent occasions.

One of the disadvantages of tear or nauseating gas is its limited persistency. It dissipates quickly into the atmosphere. If an oil base were added to make the material linger in an area, it would settle on the ground or objects and become useful only as an irritant upon contact with the skin.

Any roadway acquired before 1956 is now exempt from state controls. This eliminates control over interstate highways which follow old roadbeds as well as intersections of an interstate highway and an older road. The bonus must be computed for only those segments which are controlled.

Mrs. Liuzzo's Belief In Dignity Of Man Led To Her Death

DETROIT (AP)—Gov. George W. Romney paid a personal visit Saturday to the grief-stricken home of Viola Gregg Liuzzo, murdered on an Alabama highway, to underscore his belief that she had not died in vain.

Expressing his sympathy to Mrs. Liuzzo's bereaved husband, Anthony Liuzzo, 51, and five children, Romney told them her death resembled that of Joan of Arc, the martyred saint of France.

Both, he said, "gave their lives for what they believed in."

Mrs. Liuzzo was cut down by an assassin's bullet Thursday night on U. S. 80, about 26 miles east of Selma where she had gone to take part in the Alabama Negro freedom march.

Before visiting the Liuzzo home, Romney proclaimed a two-day period of mourning in Michigan.

Mrs. Liuzzo's body was returned to Detroit on Friday night in a Teamsters Union plane. The family plans private funeral services Tuesday. A Requiem High Mass also is scheduled.

Romney told Liuzzo, a Teamsters business agent, that he will attend the funeral services.

Viola Liuzzo

Known as a crusader and an idealist long before she journeyed to Alabama, Mrs. Liuzzo left a legacy that included some unpublished short stories and memories of her tireless search for truth.

"Truth is not Christian, Jewish, Hindu or Buddhist," she once wrote. "What is true for one man is true for all men. Just as there is no such thing as Christian medicine or Jewish biology."

Friends, neighbors and her children recalled Mrs. Liuzzo's kindness, her thirst for knowledge, and the promises she kept—both to herself and others.

Mrs. Liuzzo was a transplant Southerner. Although born in California, Pa., she spent most of her childhood in Georgia and Tennessee. Court records disclosed that she was first married in Chattanooga at the age of 16 but later was divorced. Her parents still live in Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

"She was a champion of the underdog," Liuzzo said. "She thought people's rights were being violated in Selma and she had to do something about it in her own way."

By then, informants said, the experts hope to be able to present to the Pope a first interim progress report that might form the basis of a papal speech on birth control before Easter, April

Janet Staake

MEREDOSIA — The American Legion Unit 516 has selected Janet Staake as delegate to Illinois Girls State to be held June 15-22 on MacMurray campus, Jacksonville. Mrs. Earl Lovekamp is the unit's Girls State chairman.

Miss Staake is a junior at Meredosia-Chambersburg High school and an officer of her class. She is a member of F.H.A. and an officer for the past two years, and is president of the Honey Point 4-H club. She is a member of the Emmanuel Lutheran church and a member of its Walthers League.

Mary McCartney was named alternate.

Ants speak a chemical language. An insect finding food exudes an odoriferous substance on its way back to the nest. Other ants follow the trail and if they find food, they also will return leaving a scent. As the odor becomes more powerful, other ants rush to the spot. When the food is gone, the ants no longer leave scent trails and the chemical "message" quickly evaporates so as not to confuse the workers.

The Jr. Horsemen 4-H club met at the home of Gayle Petefish March 18, at 7 p.m. Not all members were present and there were no guests.

Under old business, the trip to St. Louis was discussed and the date was decided when to go. The trip will be made on April 16.

Talks were given by Bruce Kinnett — Traffic Safety, and Gayle Petefish — Horse's Ears. Refreshments were served.

Education Unit 212 at a meeting held March 22 in the high school.

Miss Doolin is retiring at the end of the school year after teaching 39 years. She has been teaching in the Ashland school system for the last eight years. A 60-passenger Wayne bus body was purchased from the Moline Body Co. A Chevrolet chassis had been purchased earlier from the Yancy Garage here.

Twelve typewriters for use in the commercial department were purchased from the Central Office Equipment Co.

Several members of the Board and school administrators attended the Two Rivers Division meeting of Illinois School Board Association at Beardstown Tuesday evening. Robert Aggert, president of Ashland Board of Education, led a discussion group on the "Functions of the Property Tax Council, State of Illinois."

Bills in the total amount of $5,738.43 were approved for payment. Of this amount, $1,644.12 was for the hot lunch.

Ashland Lions Discuss Pool Construction

ASHLAND — The Ashland Lions discussed construction of the swimming pool at their meeting March 22 in the Legion Hall, Arthur Falls presided.

Robert Newell, program chairman, introduced Jack Turner who represented the Swimming Pool Co. of Springfield, and Robert Rutledge who represented the R. and R. Construction Co. Mr. Turner and Mr. Rutledge who collaborated in the construction of the pool at the Illini Country Club, stated that the Ashland pool would be constructed of reinforced poured concrete. It will be 35 x 75 feet with a sloping depth of 11 feet and will provide five lanes for racing or a swimming capacity of 130 to 150 persons.

The bathhouse, as required by the state, will be 61'x23'4" and will be of concrete block construction with a flat roof.

Reither On Beardstown

BEARDSTOWN — David Smith, 313 W. 4th and George Newberry, 1304 Edwards, were hospitalized Thursday afternoon for a time after their city truck was wrecked when involved in a crash with a B & O train on the Arenzville crossing near Casswood Industries.

The wreck happened about 2 p.m. and both men were taken to Schmitt Memorial hospital by ambulance. Mr. Newberry was treated for minor hurts, and Mr. Smith remained in the hospital, but was expected to be released shortly since his condition was reported good.

The city truck was declared a total loss.

School Boards Meet
Adams, Schuyler, Cass, Pike, Scott, Morgan, Calhoun, Greene and Jersey counties were represented at the Two Rivers division Illinois Association of School Board meeting here Tuesday night.

One hundred and eighty one school board members and others attended.

Loren Lemmon, school superintendent here, and Ray Walls, president of the board of education, were among the speakers.

Local News

Many of the future patrons of the Beardstown post office inspected the quarters Thursday morning when Mrs. George Hunt brought 30 of her Beard school kindergarten pupils for the tour.

They also went through the city hall, police department and fire department.

The youngsters were accompanied by several parents in addition to Mrs. Hunt.

James C. Crum of the First National Bank of this city has been elected vice president of group five of the Illinois Bankers association. The meeting was held in Quincy Wednesday.

Robert N. Buck of the First State Bank here, who was also among those attending, reported that much of the discussion outside business sessions centered about Beardstown's new industry, the Oscar Mayer Company.

A number of Beardstown citizens are planning on the construction of new homes soon, including Dr. R. A. Spencer whose residence at 1404 Washington street was ruined by fire a few weeks ago. The home will be built to the rear of the old residence and will face on Lafayette street instead of Washington.

Fred Rohn, widely known local sportsman, who has been living with his son Dale and family in Chicago, has moved to Iolas, Kansas where he now lives with another son Wallace.

Mr. Rohn was best known here years ago as one of the best duck shots in the area.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Haare, 600 W. Third street, have returned here after their fourth winter in the Rio Grande valley of Texas. They spent 10 weeks in Mission, Texas and report the temperature there is generally in the 90s. Mr. and Mrs. Haare formerly operated the Beardstown Dairy.

Mrs. Edna Schaeffer, who has served as cook at the St.

John's Lutheran day school for 16 years, has resigned due to illness. Mrs. Marie Humphrey, the Art Linkletter show while who has been "subbing" for Mrs. Schaeffer, has agreed to continue in the position. School lunches are prepared daily in had to buy a new car before they could continue to California.

Ray Walls, manager of the Mr. and Mrs. E. Miller Dunn West store here, has a new have returned home after spending $10,000 addition going up for his ing most of another winter in 4th street business.

What Will Sukarno Do N Threats To Malaysi. UN Break, China Pact

TOKYO (AP) — He has vowed to crush Malaysia, walked out of the United Nations, and forged new military ties with Communist China. What will Indonesia's President Sukarno do next?

That is a question which troubles Indonesia's other non-Communist neighbors — Burma, India, Australia, the Philippines and Thailand.

All of them have a special interest in which way Indonesia jumps.

Each is aware of the dangers of imperialism, the tub Sukarno thumps as accompaniment to his anti-Malaysia chorus.

But if, like Sukarno, they want no part of Western colonialism, neither do they wish to see the balance of South Asia jostled by the entry of a new and equally disturbing element — Chinese communism.

To find out what Sukarno's neighbors think about him and Indonesia's present policies, The Associated Press questioned leaders in those countries.

Sukarno says he is fighting the new Malaysian federation because it is a British trick to return as a colonialist power to South Asia.

But the Burmese, Indians and Australians, who ought to know about British imperialism from long experience, express no such fears.

Behind the scenes, the Australians are urging Sukarno to drop what they regard as a futile crusade, one which can only encourage the return of the imperialism he most fears. They counsel him to concentrate on putting his own economic house in order, to follow the Malaysi, an example rather than trying to destroy it.

Since Indonesia acquired — with U.N. help — half the island of New Guinea formerly held by the Dutch, Australia is Indonesia's next-door neighbor. Australia holds the other half of this rugged, jungle-covered island.

The Australians haven't forgotten that the Japanese almost used New Guinea as the jump-off point for an invasion of Australia in World War II. Canberra understandably is sensitive about the political thinking of the country which shares New Guinea.

Burma is worried most about the possibility that Indonesian aggressiveness will tempt the big powers to turn the South China Sea and its adjacent areas into a cockpit of the cold war, obscuring the need for a concerted attack on the problems of poverty and population.

The Burmese urge direct negotiations between Malaysia and Indonesia to settle their differences.

India and Pakistan, at odds in many other ways, appear to take different sides of the question.

India has firmly declared its support of Malaysia's independence and sovereignty. It has publicly declared the United Nations must be kept a sound, viable organization.

Pakistan, on the other hand,

ROODHOUSE CLUB SEES SLIDES

ROODHOUSE — Mrs. W. O. Harp showed slides of "Tulip Time in Holland, Mich." Thursday night at the dinner meeting of the Boosters Club of the Methodist church. Presiding over the business session was the president, D. O. Shade.

Devotions were given by the pastor, Rev. Jerrold Wheeler. Ken Akers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Akers, played several piano selections to provide the musical portion of the program.

Serving as host and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Mason F. Campbell, Mrs. Verna Taylor, and Mrs. Charles Seever.

Mr. and Mrs. Walton Stroumatt and family, Los Angeles, Calif., visited Sunday in the home of his mother, Mrs. Roy Reynolds, and husband, rural route. They are also visiting her relatives in Aurora.

Mrs. John Hornback has returned home from the Holy Cross hospital, Jacksonville, where she was taken following a fall in which she suffered fractures of one leg. She will be confined to her home for some time.

GREENFIELD LIONS LADIES NIGHT TO BE APRIL 1

GREENFIELD — The Greenfield Lions Club will meet in the Baptist Church Annex at 6:30 p.m. Thursday April 1. Ladies night will be observed.

Program Chairmen J. Russell Shields and Reld Tendick have secured Supt. Joseph J. Healy, Supt. of the Illinois State Department of Narcotic Control of Springfield who will give a talk on Narcotic Control and show a film, "Narcotics — The Decision."

Greenfield Notes
Mrs. Eula Piper has returned home after visiting her daughter Mrs. Pauline Selz and children in Springfield and attended a play. Her grandchildren Jilly and Mary Jo Selz were members of the cast.

Mrs. Lorene Smith was returned to her home in this city Monday by Shields ambulance from the Holy Cross hospital in Jacksonville where she had been a patient due to a fractured ankle.

Mrs. Gary Melvin fell at her country home east of Greenfield and was taken by Shields ambulance to Boyd Memorial Hospital in Carrollton, where x-rays revealed a dislocated right ankle and it was placed in a cast, and she remained as a patient.

The Greenfield Sportsmen's club held its annual family night Thursday night in the Legion hall. A fish supper was served followed by the showing of films of wildlife.

AQFAM James Houlette is spending a leave here with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Neil Houlette. He is enroute from Memphis Tenn., to Cecil Field, Jacksonville Fla., where he will be stationed.

LAHEY WITH TEAM IN VIET NAM

DA NANG, SOUTH VIETNAM (PHNOC) — Marine Corporal Charles J. Lahey, son of Mrs. Abigail A. Lahey of 527 Hooker St. Jacksonville, assisted in the landing of the Ninth Marine Expeditionary Brigade at Da Nang, Republic of Viet Nam while serving with Battalion Landing Team 2/9, aboard the amphibious assault ship USS Princeton.

During the five days of landing operations, the Princeton steamed more than 3,000 miles while conducting round-the-clock operations to land equipment and supplies for the Brigade.

The Princeton is now enroute to the British Crown Colony of Hong Kong for liberty after concluding operations in the South China Sea.

Cardinal End Is Speaker At Kiwanis Meeting

Joe Robb, defensive end for the St. Louis Football Cardinals, told Jacksonville Kiwanians last Thursday that the Cardinals' success last year was due primarily to improved offense strength.

"In previous years we had a strong defensive club, but that didn't get us the points we needed to win games," Robb said.

The husky Texan, who is a graduate of Texas Christian University, was a member of the Philadelphia Eagles' championship team of 1960 that beat the Green Bay Packers 17 to 13 in the title game. He joined the Cardinals for the 1961 campaign, and has been there since.

Guests were C. E. Marshall of Winchester, Richard Stratman, Bob and Tom Bills, John Buchanan, Jono Hildner, Alan Hinderliter, Robert Joy, Bob Kaufmann Jr., Bob Linebaugh Jr., Tom Oxley, Ellis and Roger Patterson and J. Ryan.

Band Pupils To Give Program For Turner PTA

An evening of music has been planned for the Jonathan Turner Junior High Parents' Meeting for Tuesday, March 30, at 7:30 p.m.

The students who have participated in each of the four band groups in junior high will present selections under the direction of Mr. James Welch, Band Director. There are two band groups at both seventh and eighth grade level.

Mrs. Charlotte Heaton directs the vocal music at the junior high school. The eighth grade choir is composed of students who have volunteered their free time to participate. The choir includes 150 students. The girls chorus is also a voluntary group who rehearse during their home-room periods and has 30 members. Each of the vocal groups will present selections which they have prepared for the Parents' Meeting.

Ushers will be Debbie Obert, Irma Tipsword, and Beth Puckett, members of the student council, which is sponsored by Ed Hulson, Dean of Boys.

BRIM FAMILY OF MEREDOSIA REUNITED

MEREDOSIA — Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Brim and Jill, Mrs. Henry Allen, Mrs. James Allen, Sherrie and Kerrie left Meredosia at 3:00 a.m. Tuesday for Little Rock, Arkansas. There they met the former's son, A/2c James A. Brim who had returned to England Air Force Base, La., Monday by jet plane from Viet Nam.

He had been stationed at Da Nang A.F.B. for four months. A/2c Brim returned to the Base in Louisiana, accompanied by his wife and daughters.

The other Meredosia residents returned Wednesday. Mrs. James Brim's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Stillwell reside in Jacksonville.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP) — Despite a broad setback in Friday's trading, the market for slaughter steers closed the week 25 to 75 cents a hundredweight higher.

Offerings were rather light until Friday when the cattle supply amounted to $8,500 head, the largest in 15 weeks. On that day some offerings of choice grade and below were down as much as 75 cents. However, a few prime again brought $28 which was equal to the week's high paid on Wednesday.

After mustering some firmness at the start, butcher hog prices were under late pressure and they closed about steady for the week. In closing trade, only a few of the best offerings brought the $18.35 top, down 15 cents from the high. However, the average cost for the week was estimated at $17.10 compared with $17.16 last week.

The market for wooled slaughter lambs showed little day to day change and the close was about steady.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market last week registered its second small loss in two weeks as the pace of trading fell off a bit.

It was a continuation of very small movements from day to day — except for Friday when stocks "fell off the shelf" in a mild way when Wall Street displayed nervousness over possible developments in Moscow.

It was delayed publication of the Soviet newspaper Izvestia which gave traders the jitters, or might not do in regard to the situation in Viet Nam.

The result was the worst decline in about six weeks—since the big reprisal raid against North Viet Nam reported Feb. 11. But since the market averages had jogged upward for the first three days of the trading week, the weekly decline was not so great.

Although the Dow Jones industrial average took a loss of 6.66 on Friday, its loss for the week was only 4.13 to 891.66.

On Wednesday, the Dow industrials once more closed above 900 but they sank below that "magic" level Thursday and Friday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks last week lost 1.4 to 333.5.

Volume for the week was 23,612,950 shares compared with 26,674,970 the previous week.

Of 1,537 issues traded during the week, losers outnumbered gainers by the wide margin of 812 to 543.

Hopes for spring rally got nowhere. Airlines continued weak. The distraction of events in Selma, Alabama, also was no help. Weekly steel production made a record high for the third straight week.

Bond markets last week appeared to be waiting for a new trend to develop in price movements. Prices generally were mixed. U.S. Treasury bond prices were stronger.

Bond volume for the week totaled a par value of $53,685,000, compared to $53,085,000 the previous week.

Mary Lind Memorials

Following the recent death of Mrs. Carl Lind, and in accordance with the wishes of the family, many Cass County residents made donations to the local unit of the American Cancer Society in her memory. Because of the large number of these memorial gifts and his inability to thank each donor personally, Dr. Lind has asked the American Cancer Society to carry a message of gratitude to each and every contributor.

Contributions so far total over $400.00.

Mrs. Fred Jokisch, of this city, is the memorial chairman for the Ashland unit of the Cancer Society.

The Prentice Goodwill club met recently at the home of Mrs. Phyllis Stevens. Fourteen members were present.

A contribution was given to the swimming pool fund. Bingo was played with everyone receiving a prize. The door prize was won by Mary A. Dineen.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistant, Frances Christion.

Dr. Fred L. Uhland, of this city, has returned home, after attending the 33rd annual convention of the Illinois State Veterinary Medical association. Over 400 veterinarians from every part of the state and about 100 members of the profession from out of state attended the meeting which ended Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bast spent Wednesday and Thursday with their daughter, and family, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Hedlund and children in Chicago. Neil Hedlund, who has been visiting here with his grandparents for a month, re-

March In Selma Again

Rev. James J. Reeb, a Boston white minister fatally clubbed by white men here; and Jimmie Lee Jackson, a Negro who died of a gunshot wound suffered in nearby Marion.

A Roman Catholic priest said a prayer and Heap prayed "for all the people of Selma, high and low."

The demonstrators sang their theme song, "We Shall Overcome."

A white girl howled like a wolf from a passing car.

Many of the marchers wore skullcaps as a sign of mourning.

After 12 minutes at the courthouse, the marchers crossed the street and walked back in the direction of the church, some of them humming.

After three blocks the marchers halted at the City Hall. About 40 more Negroes joined them.

Orange also told the group: "When Col. Lingo starts ripping heads again, he's going to have a lot of heads to beat. The Negro people of Selma are not going to take any more beatings. But, if we get beat, we're not going to hit back."

Col. Al Lingo is head of the state troopers. It was troopers who turned back a planned march on March 7 with tear gas and billy clubs.

The priest who offered the prayer is the Rev. John Prater of Chicago.

Seize Weapons Believe Headed For Extremists

INDUSTRY, Calif. (AP) — Machine pistols and records of their manufacture seized at an arms factory were held for examination Saturday by federal state and local authorities who believe they were destined for use by extremist groups. The plant operator denies it.

The 373 weapons, 100,000 rounds of ammunition and three silencers used for testing the guns were confiscated at the Erquiga Arms Co. on Friday by 30 officers armed with a search warrant.

Said State Atty. Gen. Thomas Lynch: "Our office has definite information that some of these illegal weapons were intended for private armies in California."

A spokesman for the attorney general's office later identified the "private armies" as — among others — the Minutemen and Rangers.

"This talk of our making guns for private armies is a lot of hogwash," Lowell Knudson, head of Knudson Mfg. Co. and operator of the Erquiga Arms Co. told newsmen.

"We have a purchase order from the Costa Rica government for 500 automatic machine pistols, which we are filling."

"We are licensed by the Internal Revenue Service and working with the approval of the U.S. State Department in making these machine guns, which we understand are to be used by Cubans in fighting Castro," Knudson said.

Sheriff's Lt. E. D. Villines, who led the raid, acknowledged that the firm has a federal license to make the weapons, but said it has state authorization for manufacture, possession, sale or transportation of such weapons. On these grounds, Circuit Municipal Court issued the search warrant.

turned home with them. Mrs. Bast remained for a month's visit.

State's Attorney Walter Farand, Sheriff Alvin Reichart, deputy Carl Wessel and Coroner S. S. Brownback attended the Illinois Coroner's Seminar at the Holiday Inn East in Springfield Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Long returned the fore part of the week from Florida to sell their home in Virginia, and they will return Monday, March 29 to Florida to make their home there. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Long of Tarpan Springs, Fla., their son and daughter-in-law who brought them home, are visiting with the latter's sister, Mrs. Cecil Shafer, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. John Reiser Sr., who have been visiting in Washington, D.C., for a few weeks, have returned to their home.

RED CHINA SENDS FUNDS TO TURKEY

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Communist China has contributed 70,000 Turkish lira — $7,677 — for Turkish-Cypriot relief, the Turkish Red Crescent (Red Cross) announced Saturday.

The donation followed a Turkish appeal through the International Red Cross, officials said. Turkey does not recognize Communist China, but recently said it would like to broaden relations between the two countries.

Maxwell Taylor On Way To U.S. With Viet Report

He is reported to believe that the United States is making good progress in working with the South Vietnamese and that the government of Premier Phan Huy Quat is taking hold.

Taylor possibly will discuss air strikes at the North Vietnamese capital, Hanoi, and its port city, Haiphong, in furthering the U.S. policy of trying to get the Northern Reds to call off support of the Viet Cong.

Informants said two squadrons — one of them jets — of U.S. Marine planes are expected to be brought to Da Nang, the chief jumping off point for air attacks on the North. The planes would be assigned the task of providing tactical support to the Marine ground forces, the sources said.

Da Nang is a base for F100 and F105 U.S. Air Force jets and South Vietnamese propeller-driven Skyraiders. There are times when these planes are gone from the field and presumably the Marines want their own planes around in the event of a Communist attack.

Johnson Hails House Passage Of School Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's House-passed $1.3-billion program for elementary and secondary schools heads now into the Senate which repeatedly has backed broad programs of federal aid to education.

The House made history Friday night with its 263-153 passage of the measure which is aimed principally at helping the children of poor families. It covers parochial as well as public schools.

President Johnson hailed it in a statement Saturday as "the greatest breakthrough in the advance of education since the Constitution was written."

Although the House never before had voted for any such general aid to education at the elementary and secondary level, the Senate has done so on several occasions.

The latest was in 1961 when it gave 49-34 passage to President John F. Kennedy's bill for a three-year, $2.56-billion program which would have been limited to public schools.

This exclusion of help for parochial schools ultimately doomed this legislation when the House Rules Committee voted 8-7 not to submit it for floor action.

A Senate Education subcommittee already has completed its hearings on the current bill and Chairman Wayne Morse, D-Ore., said he will summon the group into closed sessions, probably next week, to begin voting. It then will have to clear the full Labor and Public Welfare Committee before going to the floor.

Morse said the bill as passed by the House seems generally acceptable and he will resist any major amendments to it.

The Senate's record on general aid-to-education measures, plus the Democrats' 68-32 margin in that chamber seem to insure passage of a measure to Johnson's liking.

The heart of the one-year program approved by the House is $1.03 billion in grants to local public school districts, at the rate of one-half the state's average per-pupil costs, for each child in the 5 to 17 age bracket from families with less than $2,000 annual income.

The funds would be handled through public school systems but provisions for services to nonpublic schools would have to be provided.

FLOODS HIT MOZAMBIQUE

U.S. To Increase Its Viet Nam Propaganda Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States intends to increase its Viet Nam propaganda efforts, including sending more Americans to guerrilla-infested provinces.

In disclosing this Saturday, U.S. officials said also thought is being given to a program for ridding guerrilla defectors of false notions planted by the Communists.

Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor is returning to Washington for a week of consultation on the U.S.-backed Viet Nam campaign, which includes psychological support for Saigon's cause as well as military and economic aid.

Asked about reports of a sizable increase in the U.S. Information Agency's Viet Nam operations, USIA Director Carl Rowan outlined what he termed the unique functions performed by the U.S. government's information service in Viet Nam as compared with its activities elsewhere around the globe.

"This ranges far beyond the traditional, simple USIA role of explaining what U.S. policy is, what America and its people are like and what their goals are," Rowan said.

According to the USIA chief, who has just returned from Saigon, the U.S. has just returned from Saigon.

NORTONVILLE CLUB HAS EASTER THEME

NORTONVILLE — The Worth-while Ladies Aid of Nortonville met at the home of Mrs. Lester Penick on Wednesday, March 24. The vice president, Mrs. Charles Mutch presided.

The program was concerned with an Easter theme containing hymns, scripture readings, and several essays.

Members voted to donate $5 to the Crippled Children's fund. A profit of $78.14 was realized from the True-Courier sale. Ten members answered roll call.

The meeting closed with the singing of a hymn and the Lord's Prayer.

The hostesses served refreshments of cookies and kool-aid. The April hostess will be Mrs. Juanita Hinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Courier and family moved recently to the Harold Smith farm home south and east of Nortonville.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bettis and family have moved to the former Charles F. Story home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Whitlock have moved to the Frank Spires farm that was known for many years as the Louis Seymour farm.

Recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Belton and Helen were the Hillard Samples of Jerseyville and Mrs. James Cully and two children of Woodson.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Jones, former residents, have now moved from Springfield Illinois to Hobart, Indiana.

Jack Jones came Thursday for a visit with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Jones.

Monroe Chaudoin has returned from Passavant hospital. Debbie Wells spent Saturday night and Sunday with Juanita True.

Militarists Still Control Soviet Union

then 33, became Ustinov's deputy in 1941.

The changes were decided upon by the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist party and then ratified by the top committee of the Soviet Parliament.

The posts of Leonid I. Brezhnev as party first secretary and Alexei N. Kosygin as premier were unaffected by decisions at the Central Committee's three-day meeting that ended Friday.

Ustinov gave up his rank as a first deputy premier to move into party work. He was named a party secretary and a candidate member of the party's presidium, its key guiding group.

Since the party gives orders to the government, Ustinov apparently will continue to have a large voice in the economy.

The first deputy premier's post went to Kirill T. Mazurov, who was promoted from candidate to full member of the party Presidium.

His background as party head of White Russia suggested to some observers that Mazurov might be primarily concerned with supervising agriculture.

The Central Committee adopted far-reaching proposals of Brezhnev's to increase agricultural incentives and investments in a long-term effort to overcome Soviet farm problems.

The key economic job, however, which coordinates agriculture and industry, is now held by Novikov.

He had been a first deputy premier and chairman of the State Planning Committee from 1960 to 1962, but former Premier Khrushchev then pushed him into less important economic jobs. His return now marks another revival by Brezhnev of a man who apparently felt foul of Khrushchev.

The careers of Novikov and Ustinov moved together, with Novikov always one step behind.

They graduated from the same military engineering school in Leningrad. They both won in 1942 the highest awards for industrial work, the titles of Hero of Socialist Labor, for their armaments production work.

CARDINAL MEYER DEVELOPS SWELLING FROM BLOOD CLOT

CHICAGO (AP)—Albert Cardinal Meyer, who underwent brain surgery Feb. 25, has developed a "swelling in his left leg believed due to a thrombosis (clot) in a vein."

Mercy Hospital also reported Saturday that the prelate's pulse rate has shown a "mild increase."

The reports pointed to a general worsening in the cardinal's condition.

The spokesman reported the cardinal had been taken off a soft diet and returned to feeding by tube. The switch was made because of the patient's increasing drowsiness.

However, the hospital reported "the dip reported (previously) in the cardinal's responsiveness seems to have stabilized at a level near what it had been."

The spokesman said that, as the cardinal grew less responsive, nurses had difficulty in feeding him soft foods. Occasionally he had been unable to swallow the food and at times he had not been alert enough to eat.

Cardinal Meyer, the hospital said, no longer responds to questions asked by nurses and visitors.

A cancerous growth about the size of a walnut was removed Feb. 25 from the brain of the spiritual chief of the Chicago archdiocese, largest Roman Catholic district in the United States.

Substitutes for silver in coins that are being considered by authorities range from aluminum to zirconium to plastic.

said his wife "died doing what she believed in."

While Alabama moved uncertainly into the 11th week of a civil rights drive centered on Negro voting power, Gov. John J. McKeithen of Louisiana flew into Jonesboro, La., and conferred with Negro leaders protesting school facilities.

A Georgia Klan leader, Grand Dragon Calvin F. Craig of Atlanta, said the order would fight the President's attack. Johnson called the Klan "a hooded society of bigots," which he said uses "the rope and the gun, and the tar and feathers."

In Washington, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., predicted that the administration's voting rights bill would come out of the Senate Judiciary Committee without major changes.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara thanked the Alabama National Guardsmen and Army regulars called up by the President to patrol the 50-mile march from Selma which was climaxed by the march to the Alabama capital.

Mrs. Luzzo was among the 25,000 who marched. She was returning to Montgomery for a second group of marchers when a car pulled alongside and bullets raked her car. A slug struck her in the temple. A Negro youth riding with her said he lay on the seat and played dead when the assassins returned to check their work.

Mrs. Luzzo's death was the third in five weeks of the Alabama drive centered on Negro voting registration. She was the first white woman to die in the nation's civil rights struggle.

Three of the men arrested by the FBI on charges of conspiring to violate the victim's civil rights were free in $50,000 bond each. Bond was arranged by attorney Matt H. Murphy Jr., a Klan attorney.

The three released were Eugene Thomas, 42, a steelworker

Brothers Clean Up Long Shot Ampose Scores Startling Gulfstream Upset

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The long-est-priced horse in the race, Ampose, scored a startling upset in the $111,900 Gulfstream Handicap Saturday, and two New Jersey brothers held a twin double ticket on him worth $124,972.

It was the single most valuable ticket ever bought at an American thoroughbred track. Another longshot, Tronado, finished second while the favored Gun Bow was third and the once-great Candy Spots was dead last by five lengths.

The brothers—John C. Sabatini of Hackensack and Charles L. Sabatini of Spring Lake—left their winnings in the vault over the weekend for safety. John told mutual officials who reopened their windows: "Give me a receipt."

Illini Pitching Holds Keys To Improved Season

CHAMPAIGN — Coach Lee Ellbracht is counting on pitching to lead his Illinois baseball team back into Big Ten contention after experiencing one of its worst seasons in history last year.

Illinois' 1964 squad compiled a 9-22 record and won only one of 15 conference games, setting a new record for most league losses. However, the Illini mentor promises that "We'll win more than one Big Ten game this year."

Sophomore hurler Ken Holtzman is perhaps the biggest reason for Ellbracht's optimism. Holtzman won seven and lost four, and compiled a 2.13 earned run average for Champaign-Urbana in the tough Central Illinois Collegiate League last summer. His strikeout total of 85 (in 14 games) was third best in the league. He is a product of University City, Mo.

Ellbracht has another fine sophomore pitcher in Art Allen, a member of Maine West (Des Plaines) High School's 1963 state championship team. Joining the pair of newcomers will be letterman Ted Harvey, Belleville senior, and Jack Secrest, Highland Park senior. Harvey had a fine season as a sophomore, winning three games and losing one, but injured his knee during Illinois' spring training trip to Texas last year and played no more the rest of the season. Secrest's 2.14 Big Ten ERA was best on the team last year.

Ellbracht has seven returning lettermen, excluding pitchers, but most of them face a battle with newcomers for regular assignments.

Olympic Sprinter Out
One of the most closely watched newcomers will be Olympic sprinter Trenton Jackson, Rochester, N.Y. (Franklin) senior, who is joining the baseball team for the first time. Jackson will compete in track as well as baseball this spring. He will get first chance at the center field job, and, as Ellbracht says, "With his speed, we'll give him a thorough test."

Only familiar face in the infield will be shortstop Jim Vopicka's. Vopicka was a second team all-conference selection last year. Joining him will be Mike Rodgerson, Springfield (Lanphier) sophomore, at third base, Dan Humay, Harwood Heights (Maine West) sophomore, second base, and hard-hitting Jerry Suchala, Chicago (Lane Tech) sophomore, at first base.

Catching duties probably will be handled by Bill Schluter, junior college transfer from Belleville.

FFA TO SPONSOR BASKETBALL GAMES

CHANDLERVILLE — The Chandlerville Future Farmers of America chapter will sponsor a donkey basketball game at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the school gymnasium.

A biddy basketball game, between third and fourth grade hardcourt hopefuls, will be staged between games. Members of the Future Homemakers of America chapter will serve refreshments during intermission.

The last game of the evening will pit members of the high school class against junior and senior class boys.

Wall Issues Report On Speed Rules

By THOMAS J. ROWEN

Bill Wall, athletic director and varsity baseball coach at MacMurray College, maintains the free agent draft approved by major league teams at their recent Houston meeting is unconstitutional.

This draft is supposed to eventually be patterned after the one employed by football and basketball teams in which they draft college seniors or players whose classes have graduated.

Some of the thinking behind this draft for baseball is that it will keep college boys in school and they will not be signing contracts and dropping out of college after their sophomore year.

"I question it from a constitutional standpoint," Wall says. "I believe there will be a test case on it and it will be taken to court."

As executive secretary of the National Collegiate Baseball Foundation, Wall has issued an interesting report on speed-up rules which many coaches around the country are unhappy about because they believe they will help to create an interest due to the short length of games.

Wall says coaches in central Illinois where his MacMurray College team plays like doing away with the intentional pass. The catcher just signifies to the umpire that the batter is to be passed to first base.

"But they don't like the courtesy runner for the pitcher when he gets on base," Wall continues. "However, we do favor a courtesy runner for the catcher after two are out."

"We also have found that seven inning single games are unsatisfactory," he continues. "No throwing the ball around the infield after a put out has received favorable comment from the coaches. Elimination of this cuts quite a bit of time off the length of games."

Wall says he believes the top college baseball teams in the mid-west this year will be Indiana, Notre Dame and Minnesota. He doesn't believe Minnesota will defend its national championship.

As for moving the NCAA world series out of Omaha, Nebraska where it is held every June, Wall says:

"I like Omaha. But if someone else could afford the tournament, it would be nice to rotate it every year."

Expect State's Hunters To Back Firearms Bill

Two bills introduced in the Illinois Legislature to crack down on armed crimes of violence are expected to get the enthusiastic support of the state's hunters and shooters.

Two identical bills, H.B. 472 and S.B. 351, would amend the criminal code to make additional jail sentences mandatory for bodily assaults committed with a firearm. The sentences, which range from two years to life imprisonment, would be added to the penalties for unarmed crimes.

Public hearings have been scheduled by the Senate and House judiciary committees for Tuesday, March 30, at 3 p.m. and Wednesday, March 31, at 2 p.m., respectively, in the State Capitol Building.

The proposed code amendments are aimed strictly at the criminal misuse of firearms, not at the law-abiding sportsman. They would serve to reinforce the state's get-tough policy on thugs and muggers, as evidenced by recent code amendments to provide stiffer penalties for armed or unarmed attacks on school teachers and public park employees.

Similar firearms bills have been introduced recently in the U.S. House of Representatives and the California Legislature, according to the National Shooting Sports Foundation of Riverside, Connecticut.

Under the Illinois measure, the sentence for a person convicted of an armed act of violence would be increased two to five years for the first conviction, five to ten years for the second, and life imprisonment for the third.

Ring Roundup For Doubleheader Stable: It Comes Once In Lifetime

By SANDY PADWE

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. NEW YORK — (NEA) —

There is the same grimace about Jose Stable you'll find in most fighters who come out of a country like Cuba and still have family there, a family hoping some day to get out and rejoin a son.

Jose Stable got out during the turbulent days of the revolution when Fidel Castro took power. Since then he has worked in the obscurity of places like the Sunnyside Gardens in New York and the Blue Horizon in Philadelphia, but all this time he has beaten people regularly and convincingly.

And now he has earned himself an opportunity to take Emile Griffith's welterweight championship in Madison Square Garden March 30.

The prestige and money that go with the title may be a factor in getting his family out.

"My brother is a pretty good amateur fighter," Stable (stoblay) said through his trainer and interpreter Victor Valle (Jose speaks no English). "I would like to get him over here, but it is a very complicated thing. The people must go through Mexico and Spain."

For Stable, boxing became life when he was 13. It was the only thing left for a youngster who quit school in the fourth grade to help support his family by working in a coffee factory.

His father worked in the coffee factories, too, sharing his earnings with Jose to help buy the equipment an amateur boxer needed.

In 1959 he turned professional, fighting exclusively in Havana, where boxing night used to be a colorful thing with his friends shouting for him and with the deeply tanned Americans, occupying the ringside seats, blowing the smoke from their expensive cigars into the hot klieg lights.

They all liked his cat-like style, his great stamina, his left hook and his courage.

They started talking about the past, about the others — Kid Gavilan and Kid Chocolate — who had come up the same way.

Then came the revolution and Manuel Alfaro, who managed the late Benny Paret, brought Stable to the U.S. Two years later, Manny Gonzalez took over Stable's contract.

Gonzalez is a little guy who talks quickly, blending a genuine mixture of the Bronx and Puerto Rico into every sentence.

"We're like a brother combination," Gonzalez said. "Every time he does something he discusses it with me. I take care of his finances for him. He wants it that way. I pay him a salary."

"Right now it's $70 a week. That's all he needs. He's got no vices. His idea of a good time is having a nice dinner with his wife at home and then sit and listen to records."

"The rest of his money goes into the bank. I don't want any money borrowing from him. I want him to be set when he's through."

Stable is 24, a lithe 5-6½, 147-pounder who possesses exceptional speed to wear down an opponent.

He has a record of 25-21, including nine knockouts. A lot of people were impressed and that's why Stable has this title shot. He is very ready for it. There are still those people in Cuba.

MILWAUKEE HALTS REDS' STRING 6-5

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves stopped Cincinnati's exhibition baseball victory streak at six games Saturday with a 6-5 triumph over the Reds.

The Reds committed four errors. Reds' pitcher Sammy Ellis, touched for nine of Milwaukee's 10 hits, made two balks, costing him two runs.

The Braves scored the winning run in the seventh when Mike Lee of the Sox singled, went to home on Lee Maye's double and came home on an infield out.

Eddie Mathews slugged a bases-empty homer in the fifth inning for the Braves.

RODGERS CAPTURES AZALEA 54 LEAD

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — A slumped-down Phil Rodgers, gradually shaking off a two-par 68 Saturday, shot a four-under-par 68 Saturday to move into the 54-hole lead of the $28,750 Azalea Open Golf Tournament.

His total of 206 on rounds of 68-70-68 gave him a one-stroke lead over Dick Hart, the 36-hole pace-setter, who shot a par 72. Joe Campbell shot 69 to jump into third place at 208 going into Sunday's final round.

Rodgers, who weighed 198 last fall, went on a diet that lopped some 25 pounds off his 5-foot-8 frame in two months.

He hasn't won a tournament since the Texas Open 23 months ago.

Griffith, Pastrano Picks In Twin-Bill

NEW YORK (AP) — Welterweight champion Emile Griffith is a solid 2-1 choice over Jose Stable but light heavyweight king Willie Pastrano is only a narrow 6-5 favorite over Jose Torres in the championship doubleheader at Madison Square Garden Tuesday night.

This first title twin bill in Garden history, at prices ranging from $5 to $30, may sell out the Garden for a $250,000 gate. The Garden expects a gate of at least $200,000.

The promoters, however, are counting on the closed circuit telecast to coast-to-coast theaters and arenas, to make a profit.

Pastrano, making his third defense of the 175-pound division crown, has been guaranteed $100,000 or 30 per cent of the receipts that go into the promotional pot.

Griffith, in his 11th title fight, has been guaranteed $70,000 or 20 per cent of the pot.

Torres and Stable will collect $10,000 each and the chance to grab the gold ring titles.

Griffith, only fighter ever to win the 147-pound division crown three times, is supremely confident he has the power to overcome the Cuban-born Stable.

"Too Strong For Stable" "Stable is a good boy, but I feel I am too strong for him," said the 27-year-old Griffith, a native of the Virgin Islands.

Stable has won nine straight for a 25-21 record. He has scored nine knockouts, including his last three victims. He never has been stopped.

The champ's record is 43-5. He has scored 16 knockouts and been stopped once. Middleweight Rubin Carter flattened him in one round at Pittsburgh, Dec. 20, 1963.

Pastrano, at 29, is a veteran of 83 pro fights in 13½ years. A clever boxer who relies on his speedy hands, shifty feet and ring cunning, he is handsome and virtually unmarked.

After winning the crown from Harold Johnson on a disputed decision at Los Vegas, June 1, 1963, he stopped Argentina's Gregoria Peralta in the sixth round on April 10 and Britain's Terry Downes in the 11th round on Nov. 30.

His record is 63-12-8 including 12 knockouts.

"I'll get him between the seventh and 10th rounds," vowed Torres, a 28-year-old Puerto Rican-born New Yorker. He is ranked fifth contender by the

CARDINALS FALL IN EIGHTH, 3-2

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Willie Horton's two-out single in the eighth inning scored George Smith with the winning run in Detroit's 3-2 exhibition baseball victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday.

Horton's blow came after the Cardinals intentionally walked Al Kaline. The Tigers loaded the bases off Ray Sadecki earlier in the inning and tied the score as Don Wert grounded into a double play.

Curt Simmons started for the world champions limiting the Tigers to four hits through the first seven innings. The Cardinals scored both of their runs in the fifth inning.

The only Detroit run off Simmons came in the sixth when Smith walked, stole second and came home on Bill Roman's single.

Torres: Sure I'm Scared, Not Of Willie

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. HILLSDALE, N. J. — (NEA) —

It was an hour when only milkmen operate with efficiency. A frosting of new snow fell the countryside cold as an Eskimo's kiss and the two heavily bundled men communicated in billows of vapor as they slipped and slid at the trot in the dim light of dawn.

Occasionally, Jose Torres, the boxer, would pivot sharply and toss loose punches at an imaginary enemy. His companion, a wheezing newspaperman, finally called a halt to the road running three miles, 40 minutes and a busting gut from the training camp.

Torres, 28, beaten only once, sweated in silence. His mind was working overtime.

Shortly, he could be light heavyweight champion of the world. It'll be a full house at Madison Square Garden when he and Willie Pastrano mix it up March 30. And maybe millions more will view it on closed circuit television.

All those people. His wife will be there, of course, and many people up from his native Puerto Rico to see it. Hate to disappoint any of them.

And what about his mother? She cries when Jose fights and becomes upset. She's getting old now and a loss, well a loss just might.

"I'm scared," Jose Torres muttered.

"I think about the fight and all the people and I'm scared. Sometimes my stomach hurts, sometimes I just get cold. Maybe that's good, though. Anyway, Pastrano — he's scared too."

"I ain't scared of Willie understand. Lost of losing or getting hurt. I've worked hard for this one. Waited 36 fights and twice as many disappointments for this chance. I'm so happy, but scared. You understand?"

"Willie's what — 63 wins, 12 losses, eight draws? More experience than me, maybe, but I've got 24 knockouts and that counts for something. I think I can hit harder and maybe box better than him. And maybe I'm faster, too. We'll see."

A bus driver hit his horn twice. Torres waved as it groaned out of sight.

"I like that, you know? They recognize me and I like it. I owe a lot of it to Gus (Cus D'Amato, his official trainer and unofficial adviser and friend). He taught me everything and I'm grateful."

"But I couldn't keep this kind of life up if I didn't believe in it and myself. I don't like everything about boxing, but there's plenty good about it. Even if I lose I'll keep on. I won't quit until I just don't like it any more."

"Some day I want to be a writer. Norman Mailer, you know him? He's a good friend of mine and is helping me to learn. I took two years of college journalism here, but the books . . . I don't like the books. I write a little now, mostly for my home town paper in Ponce."

"I guess I'm sort of a hero back there. I think about that a lot. I mean if I lost or anything, you know."

The two men began a slow jog again, blowing into their hands and flailing the icy air with their arms.

Jose Torres flashed a couple of sharp rights. Then he blessed himself with the Catholic's sign of the cross.

"Soon," he said, "I'll be the champion of the world."

And for a moment, he wasn't afraid.

Aleindor Picked All America For Third Campaign

NEW YORK (AP) — Lew Alcindor, 7-foot-1 star of New York's Power Memorial, is the first player to be selected three times for the All-America high school basketball team picked in a nationwide poll of college and high school coaches.

The ninth annual squad, chosen for Parade Magazine and announced Saturday, consists of five seniors and averages 6-7. The first team includes Alcindor; Sim Hill of Midland, Pa.; Don Ross, East, Waterloo, Iowa; Pete Maravich, Needham Broughton, Raleigh, N.C.; and Richard Braucher, Kutztown, Pa.

Maravich is the son of Press Maravich, coach of North Carolina State.

The second team includes L. C. Bowen, Benton Harbor, Mich.; Howard Arndt, Republic, Mo.; Melvin Bell, Clinton, Okla.; Lucius Allen, Wyandotte, Kansas City, Kan.; Butch Beard, Breckinridge County, Hardinsburg, Ky.

Jay Trump Breaks American Drought In Grand National

AINTREE, England (AP) —

Tommy Smith rode Jay Trump to a narrow victory in a thrilling Grand National Saturday and made racing history.

For the first time in 128 years the fearsome steeplechase was won by a horse bred in the United States, owned by an American and ridden by one.

Smith, from Middleburg, Va., fought it out neck-and-neck with Freddie, the 7-2 favorite, over the last few hundred yards. He won by three-fourths of a length.

Mr. Jones was third 20 lengths behind. Rainbow Battle fourth. Both were 50-1 shots.

Jay Trump's owner, Mrs. Mary Stephenson of Cincinnati, Ohio, greeted Smith with a big kiss in the unsaddling enclosure. The win brought her a first prize of $61,714. Jay Trump was 100-6 in the betting.

Jay Trump, twice winner of the Maryland Hunt Cup in the United States, was timed in 9:30.6. The record is 9:20.4, set by Golden Miller in 1934.

It was the second straight victory for an American-owned horse in the National, which was run for the 124th time since 1837. Last year's winner was Team Spirit.

IC Baseball Team Has Tough Schedule

The Illinois College baseball

Blueboys open their season April 8 for a 17-game card. Eight double-headers will be played, with seven games at home and ten on the road.

"This is the toughest schedule we've faced in a long time, but the 22 men we have out for baseball are an exceptionally hard-working group," Coach Joe Brooks said.

The Blueboys open at Southern Illinois University just four days after I.C. students return from their spring recess. The hilltop diamond-men then move to Principia College for a double-header on April 10, before returning for the first home game on April 12 against Quincy College.

"Except for Jim Bruner, junior from Jacksonville, we have to start all over again in our pitching staff. We will have to find strong replacements for pitcher Willie Kording, as well as catcher Buford Green, third baseman Rich Webster, Bob Nichols, Gordon Heaton, and John Sullivan," Brooks added.

Leonard Bending, sophomore letterman from Des Plaines, Ill., was cited by Brooks as the team's best catcher, followed by sophomore John Zerjal from Granite City, Ill.

Among prospective pitchers, only Bruner is a returning letterman. Promising newcomers include freshmen Pete Gallatin from Martinsville, Ill., and Bill Blessman from Bath, Ill. Other pitchers are freshmen Jim Theodorow of St. Louis, Harold Enke of Jacksonville, and Wayne Silldorf of Chicago.

Jim Downer, junior from Springfield who hit .382 last season while leading the squad in doubles and placing second in HR's and RBIs, will be moved from right field to first base.

Letterman Bob Rittenhouse, junior from Rushville, and Ralph Lawrence, sophomore from Lincoln, are both vying for the second base spot.

In addition to the freshmen pitchers, other newcomers include sophomore Gene Gourley of Carrollton, and freshmen David Bertolino of Bushnell; Bob Bullard of Perry; Donald Haynes of Delwood, Mo.; Larry Herrick of Auburn, Ill.; Richard Kruse of Woodstock, Ill.; Terry Pedit of Braidwood, Ill.; Bill Pittman of Camp Point; Gregory Pressey of Pittsfield; and Dan Runkle of Littleton, Ill.

TIGERS SELL PAUL TO CUBS
LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—The Detroit Tigers sold righthanded pitcher Bill Paul to the Chicago Cubs Saturday for an undisclosed amount of cash or a player to be named later.

Paul, 24, appeared in one game for the Tigers last year after an 11-1 record with Syracuse of the International League.

Saari Paces USC's
3rd Straight Crown

AMES, Iowa (AP)—Roy Saari claimed his second straight triple crown and powered Southern California to the National Collegiate swimming title Saturday night.

Saari chopped more than nine seconds off the collegiate and American records with a spectacular triumph in the 1,650-yard freestyle as the Trojans beat Indiana for the team championship, 285 to 278 1/2.

Southern California clinched its third straight title in the final event when its 400-yard freestyle team finished in front of Indiana's as Yale won the race in record time of 3:07.2.

That was the eighth American and ninth NCAA record to fall in the three-day meet, in which Indiana pulled within half a point of the lead going into the final relay after a one-two-three finish for Hoosier divers Ken Sitzberger, Rich Gilbert and Rick Earley.

But none of the marks mentioned matched that posted by Saari, a powerful junior, in taking his third individual crown in the 1,650.

Saari was battled shoulder to shoulder by Michigan sophomore Carl Robie, the 400-yard individual medley champion, to 1:49.9 yards. But Robie's hopes were ruined by Saari's finishing kick which carried him to a 15-yard victory margin.

The 20-year-old Olympian won the 500-yard freestyle and the 200-yard freestyle in record time earlier in the meet. A year ago he won the 1,650, the 500 and the 200-yard individual medley.

Yale captain Steve Clark also smashed American and collegiate records as he stroked to a 46.1 seconds clocking in the 100-yard.

The triumph was the second of the meet for Clark, who also won the 50-yard freestyle.

Southern California's Bill Craig successfully defended his 100-yard breaststroke crown in a tight race in 1:00.3. The finish was so bunched that runner-up Russell Webb of UCLA was given a faster time, 1:00.2.

But the Trojans' record holder in the 100-yard backstroke, Bob Bennett, was dethroned by Michigan State's Gary Dilley, another double winner. Dilley, who also took the 200-yard backstroke, won the shorter version of his specialty in 52.6 erasing the 53.1 American and collegiate marks posted by Bennett a year ago.

Indiana's Fred Schmidt took the 100-yard butterfly in 51 seconds after claiming the 200-yard version earlier.

Expect Long Wait
In Selection Of
New Commissioner

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Baseball will get down to the serious business of picking a successor to Commissioner Ford Frick Monday at a meeting of the brass of the 20 major league clubs at Frick's spring training headquarters.

If the owners can agree on the replacement at this first screening, it will be a surprise to all concerned. Top baseball men estimate the earliest likely date for selection of a new czar is the All-Star game break in July. Others say it will be after the World Series in October.

Frick's second seven-year term expires in September, but he has agreed to remain until a successor is named, or at least through the 1965 World Series.

Warren Giles, president of the National League and a leading candidate when Frick was elected in 1951, has removed himself from consideration because of his age. Giles also believes it is unlikely the owners will name a commissioner Monday.

"Not a chance of naming anybody at this meeting," said Joe Cronin, president of the American League who is regarded by many as a top possibility for the job if a baseball man is selected.

Groundwork First
"I doubt if anybody will be picked until after the World Series. Don't forget we have to lay the groundwork first," Cronin explained.

When the owners have sifted through the long list of candidates and are ready to vote, it will take seven votes in each league to elect a commissioner. This is a precautionary move to guard against one league showing its own man down the throat of the other league by a 10-0 ballot in its own league and adding four malcontents from the other.

The first commissioner elected in 1920 was Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, a stern guiding hand who ruled in the wake of the Black Sox Scandal. Although there was opposition to Landis in later years, he remained in office until he died.

A.B. (Happy) Chandler, former Kentucky governor, was elected because of his interest in baseball and his political connections. The owners notified him they would not renew his contract and finally settled on Frick as his successor after several ballots in which Frick and Giles were deadlocked.

Some owners want a baseball man. Others insist on an outsider with good connections in Washington. Others lean toward a businessman. All seem to agree that the new commissioner should be young.

Mets Support Shea

The New York Mets have thrown their support behind Bill Shea, a New York lawyer who led the fight to bring a second team to New York after the Giants and Dodgers deserted. He is the man after whom Shea Stadium, the Mets' home, is named. There are reports he has the backing of at least three other National League clubs.

In addition to Cronin and Giles, despite his demerit, baseball people mentioned for the job include Buzzy Bavasi of the Dodgers, Gabe Paul of the Cleveland Indians, Lee MacPhail of the Baltimore Orioles, Joe Brown of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Fred Haney of the Los Angeles Angels.

Among the national figures mentioned, in addition to Shea, are former Vice President Richard Nixon, Sens. Robert Kennedy of New York, Philip Hart of Michigan and Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota, Supreme Court Justice Byron (Whizzer) White, Gen. Maxwell Taylor, Milton Eisenhower, brother of the former president, and Anthony Celebrezze, former Cleveland mayor and Cabinet member.

Golfing Beauty Reached Early Ambition Quick

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (NEA)—At the age of 6, Judy Torluemke started hitting golf balls because she had an ambition in life—to meet the Queen of England.

"At 16," she said, "I couldn't have cared less."

She had already been to England to play in the British Amateur, got knocked out in her first match, cried and swore she'd never golf again.

Since Judy is only 20 now and chances the little white pellet down green fairways for a living, that resolution has gone by the boards. What's left is a pretty, freckle-faced young miss who has grown up to five feet four inches, and disperses 115 pounds over that length in just the right places.

That makes her just about the most attractive thing in women's golf, the one who could save the whole business, according to Beverly Hansen, one of the retired queens. That's a unique position for a girl who hasn't won any tournaments since she turned pro three years ago.

The last time I saw Judy was at the Doral Country Club a couple of weeks ago, where she took a busman's holiday to watch the male pros play. And she toyed with a cup of coffee as she looked out a vast expanse of glass over lush, palm-lined meadow and said, "I'd be waiting on tables instead of sitting here if I weren't a pro golfer."

She turned pro because they stop giving the amateur gals expense money once they reach 18 and Judy "never got used to never having money."

She played 15 tournaments that first season, placed in the money in nine and won a grand total of $800.

"Being 17 and on the tour," she reminisced, "is like going out to find a fortune. There's an awful lot of responsibility just taking care of yourself. It was kind of a nightmare."

"It can be demoralizing because when I was a child I was used only to winning."

At the age of 8, she started a three-year monopoly of the National PeeWee tournament in Orlando, Fla. In 1964, just staying close to the pack, Judy earned $11,000.

Winning a tournament is beginning to bug her because Judy has a program carved out to stay on the tour only three more years. Then it's marriage and two or three kids and weekend golf.

Meanwhile, she admitted, it's a bit of a ball. She's redheaded, and freckles pile on top of freckles, surrounding mischievous eyes and a bright smile. She drives around the country in her own new Oldsmobile, making her own payments.

"I get to know a lot of people," she said, adding sadly, "but I never get to know any real love."

"The tour isn't a normal life. I'm too much like a girl. I'm not so devoted as I should be. I can stroke a golf ball as well as anyone, but I don't know if I have the physical ability or the stamina."

"I dig Chi Chi Rodriguez because he gets every last ounce out of his swing. I love to see him pop it past a big guy."

Judy's dilemma confronts every pretty young thing when she gets to wearing lipstick and has to decide whether to practice the bossa nova or her approach shots.

Chaparral Ends Ferrari
Reign In Sebring Race

SEBRING, Fla. (AP)—Jim Hall, wealthy young Texas oilman who races sports cars for fun, brought his speedy Chaparral through heat and rain, through daylight and darkness to a surprise victory in the Sebring 12-hour endurance race Saturday.

Hall and Hap Sharp, his fellow business man in oil well drilling as well as driving, were in first or second place all the way in their pure white machine with unorthodox appearance and unprecedented automatic transmission.

They put an end to the reign of Ferrari, which could do no better than third place after winning here the last four years.

The winners covered 197 laps unofficially and averaged 84.723 miles an hour.

Because of a violent rainstorm, the record of 214 laps and 92.364 m.p.h. held up. Mike Parkes and Umberto Maglioli set it in a factory Ferrari.

There was no question the Chevrolet-powered Hall-Sharp Chaparral was the fastest in the field of 67 cars. It turned the flat 5.2-mile airport course in record breaking laps. Only an hour-long deluge of rain prevented it from a full race record.

Drives Record Lap
Sharp had the honor of driving the record lap in 2 minutes 59 seconds—a speed of 104.58 miles an hour. It erased the 3:06.2 and 100.539 m.p.h. record set by John Surtees in a Ferrari last year.

A Ford GT prototype which won the Daytona continental race at 2,000 kilometers (1,243 miles) only a month ago, finished second.

It was four laps behind the winner and its veteran drivers, Ken Miles of Hollywood, Calif., and Bruce McLaren of New Zealand were nursing their machine through the hours after darkness fell.

Carroll Shelby, who entered the Ford GT and its twin which fell victim to mechanical trouble early in the race, ordered his drivers to avoid charging at the winner through the late hours.

"We'd rather finish second than not finish," Shelby said. David Piper of London and Tony Maggs of Pretoria, South Africa, drove a green Ferrari to third place.

Day Of Extremes
It was a day of extremes. The afternoon heat was so intense that two drivers required hospital treatment for heat exhaustion.

A rain squall hit with unprecedented violence at 5:25 p.m. The deluge was so heavy that the lap speed dropped from better than 100 miles per hour to 28 m.p.h. for nearly an hour.

Phil Hill, former world driving champion from Santa Monica, Calif., said the water inside his No. 16 Cobra was up to his waist and sloshing back and forth in waves.

There were six accidents. Four drivers and two spectators were taken to hospitals, but none was seriously hurt.

The most spectacular crash involved three cars on the asphalt road stretch between a series of curves known as "the esses" and "hairpin turn." Trouble started after Nick Cone's Volvo blew an engine and stopped. George Reed piled into the car with his Cobra after Cone had stepped out of his machine. Along came Chuck Stoddard in an Alfa and flipped over and over as he tried to avoid the wreck.

West All-Stars Nip
Eastern Team, 87-74

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Wyming guard Flynn Robinson triggered a second-half West rally and led his team to an 87-74 victory in the East-West College All-Star basketball game.

The East jumped to a 40-35 halftime lead behind Michigan's Bill Buntin and North Carolina's Billy Cunningham, and built a 56-45 margin the first six minutes of the second period.

Then Robinson replaced Oregon State's Jim Jarvis and the West began to move. Robinson and All-America Gail Goodrich of UCLA carried most of the load as the West rolled up 17 straight points. Goodrich and Robinson also hit back-to-back goals to ice the game at 81-66 with three minutes remaining.

Goodrich and Robinson led all scorers with 20 points each. Goodrich was named the game's most valuable player.

Billy Cunningham, of North Carolina, who won the sportsmanship trophy, led the East with 19.

Progressed As Planned
The game developed exactly as West Coach Duggie Julian of Dartmouth and East Coach Joe Lapchick of St. John's had predicted.

"The East has the size," Julian had said, "but I think our backcourt will compensate for that."

Goodrich and Robinson also manhandled the East on defense as Cunningham and Evansville's Jerry Sloan were playing guard for the first time in a college game.

The East controlled the backboards, out-rebounding the victors 45-40. All-America Fred Hetzel of Davidson played only about 15 minutes but led all rebounders with 12.

The West outshot the East from the field, 43.8 per cent to 38.1.

Buntin scored 16 points for the East, and 1964 All-America Dave Stallworth of Wichita had 15 for the West.

OAK PARK, Ill. (AP)—Oak Park High School, the host team, scored 48 1/2 points to win the 35th annual Oak Park relays Saturday night.

It marked the 19th title for Oak Park in the largest track meet of the season. New Trier finished second with 33 points.

BUY FALSE BEARDS
HONG KONG (AP)—Government officials—pleased but puzzled—announced American importers bought more than two million false beards from Hong Kong last year. They said they had no idea why so many were wanted.

Between you'n'me
BY MURRAY OLDERMAN
SPORTS EDITOR
NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSOCIATION

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (NEA)—The minute he walked into the low-slung, ranch style clubhouse beyond the link fence on the left field foul line Frank Howard knew he belonged.

He reached into the locker stall the Washington Senators had set aside for him. His baseball pants were tied to his shirts, the socks to his jackets, and the whole kaboodle knotted together in one lump. He reached for his shoes, and they were tied together in intermittent knots the length of the laces.

His shower shoes were taped and tacked to the top of the locker. He stuck his hand into his glove and came out with a fistful of shaving cream.

Moore simply. And Frank professes enchantment with the whole idea: "The Dodgers had to make a trade. They can't stay with a guy that's not going hot. Gil Hodges (Senator manager) knows me and what I can do for this team."

In fact, there are 12 ex-Dodgers, not counting Hodges, on the premises. That doesn't make Howard feel like a stranger, either.

Frank Howard
"I felt like they wanted me here," said Howard, recalling that it took him an hour to get the stuff undone.

The culprit was Don Zimmer, a tobacco-chewing veteran they call Zip. Zip was Howard's teammate on the Los Angeles Dodgers when Frank arrived in the big leagues to stay in 1960, and he was waiting here for Frank when the towering outfielder was traded to the Washington club in one of the winter's big deals.

"On the Dodgers," remembered Zimmer, "he called me 'Mister' for a year and a half."

"Until I got to know somebody," admitted Howard, "I'm a little backward."

To belong is very important to Frank, who sticks out in any crowd by virtue of the fact he stands six feet seven inches dressed for the beach. Baseball interest has centered on him since the day he accepted more than $100,000 from the Dodgers to become the next Babe Ruth.

"The publicity hurt me," he confessed. "I'm a big man. People have a tendency to expect a big man to do it all the time. I'm limited in what I can do."

Such as? "Running." Which immediately conjured up a vision of Howard lumbering to first base on a ball banged against the far right field wall and barely making it to second base.

"Defensively," he added, "I can't cover ground like a Don Lock (Washington's centerfielder). I'd be crazy to say I have the co-ordination of a Maury Wills or Willie Davis."

"I compensate through power and strength. And hard work."

In 1964, uncomfortable as all ways in the garish atmosphere of Hollywood, threatening to quit before the season began because of personal problems, Frank slumped to .226.

"I had a bad year, he said, "because I don't think I worked hard enough. I wasn't in good shape. And work is what has kept me in the big leagues."

Looking around the tidy little training camp park, roofless along the baselines, holes sunk in the ground for dugouts and canvas stretched across the top for a covering—and not a water cooler in sight—you had to remind yourself that this, and Washington, is the big leagues.

The day Frank was traded last December, he received a call from Moose Skowron. Moose had been Frank's roommate one year in Los Angeles, preceded him to Washington and then was relieved last summer to Chicago.

"You'll like it there," said Moose simply.

And Frank professes enchantment with the whole idea: "The Dodgers had to make a trade. They can't stay with a guy that's not going hot. Gil Hodges (Senator manager) knows me and what I can do for this team."

In fact, there are 12 ex-Dodgers, not counting Hodges, on the premises. That doesn't make Howard feel like a stranger, either.

STEEL CONTRACT NEGOTIATIONS
GET UNDERWAY

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Negotiations were hard at work in their first weekend bargaining since basic steel contract talks resumed two weeks ago. They face a May 1 strike deadline.

Subcommittee assigned this week by the 12-man top union industry bargaining group, worked on various matters while the United Steelworkers Union put the finishing touches on the economic package it will present Monday.

Scheduling of the first discussions on money and key fringe benefits in a new industrywide contract was announced Friday along with a program aimed at speeding up the talks.

Arrival of bedrock bargaining was regarded as a hopeful sign. But there were indications that these issues may present the least of the hurdles for negotiators.

R. Conrad Cooper, chief of the four-man industry committee that represents the 11 major steel producers, told newsmen: "There's a saying I am fond of: 'The difficult we do right away. The impossible takes a little longer.'"

The union, in a statement before talks recessed for two months during the union's still unsettled election, said that it would aim for total job security.

In recent contracts with the can industry and at least one independent steel producer it has showed that this means not only a sizeable wage package, but a big boost in the supplemental unemployment benefits that protect workers when laid off.

That is a prime union goal in this age when the steel industry is automating rapidly. But it is more costly for the big, multi-plant operations of basic steel than for some other industries.

Cooper said the best method of procedure to deal with particular contract issues is yet to be worked out. The contract issues are important to the rank and file. They deal with contracting out work, foremen's duties, grievance procedure, and overtime. Of all these, one closest to the heart of the rank and filer is the grievance procedure.

Jaycee Home Show Next Weekend Will Be A Family Treat

Over fifty business firms have leased over eighty booth spaces for the annual Sports and Home Show in Jacksonville April 2, 3 and 5 to be held in the building on the North side of the public square, formerly occupied by the Montgomery Ward Store.

The Show is sponsored annually by the Jacksonville Junior Chamber of Commerce and draws hundreds of visitors from the Jacksonville trading area.

Women will find appeal in the home appliances, clothing, costume jewelry, flowers, foods and outdoor plantings and furnishings. Men will be interested in home improvement displays, construction, hobbies, furnishings of homes, offices, etc., foreign cars, clothing, services, etc. Children will delight in the toy exhibits, musical instruments, camera supplies and hobbies.

One of the booths will provide refreshments for those wishing to take advantage of this accommodation.

Most local industries will be well represented at the public exhibition, and many will provide token gifts for visitors.

City Candidates To Speak Monday At League Meet

The League of Women Voters of Morgan County will hold a Voters Service meeting Monday, March 29, at 7:30 p.m. in the Auditorium at Washington School, according to an announcement by Mrs. Edward McCurdy and Mrs. Robert Kooker, co-chairmen.

Citizens are invited to hear brief comments from the candidates for the various offices to be filled at the city election April 20 and the school election April 10.

Mayor Byron Holkenbrink, Democratic incumbent, and Fred C. Gray, Republican candidate for mayor, will be introduced.

Candidates for city clerk and city treasurer will be present. These are Republican incumbent Harvey Green and Democratic candidate Mrs. Venetta Blackburn, for city clerk; and Republican candidate Rose P. Cosgriff and Democratic candidate Mrs. Jean Henley, for city treasurer.

Candidates for alderman in each of the city's seven wards will also be present.

The two candidates for election to the District 117 Board of Education will be introduced. They are William Deem, running for re-election, and Robert Brubaker, seeking the recently expired term of Walter DeShara, who did not file for re-election.

The League of Women Voters urges Jacksonville citizens to avail themselves of this opportunity to meet the people who are seeking public office. A question and answer period will follow the presentations.

Tax Rates Cut In Cass County

By Virgil Reither
BEARDSTOWN — Tax rates in most of Cass County have been cut slightly, but there has been an increase in assessed valuations, with the result that tax income for the county has increased.

Gus Carls, county clerk, says that the rates in Beardstown, Ashland, and Chandler are down, and in Virginia and Arenzville they are up slightly.

However, when applied to assessments on properties, the lower rates bring in more money due to higher assessments.

Assessed valuation for 1964 was $56,882,439, an increase of $63,042. This of this increase is represented by the increase in Beardstown where property assessments climbed by $623,000 over the preceding year.

Mr. Utterback, executive vice president of First National Bank, told the group, "We can expect our most successful educational and fund-raising campaign ever." Last year the society raised $6,500 and distributed 15,000 educational leaflets in Morgan county.

The chairman pointed out that "an annual health checkup for every adult would have a tremendous effect on reducing the death rate from cancer. Too many people die of cancer today who do not have to. They simply do not take the necessary precautions."

Four Candidates Compete In Scott School Election

By Naomi Lawson
(Winchester Correspondent)
(Telephone 742-3490)

WINCHESTER — Four Scott residents have filed petitions for election to the board of education of District One. On the basis of existing membership, any three of the candidates may serve if elected. Three members will be elected for three-year terms.

Sterling Shafer and James H. Campbell, both residents of Township 13, Range 12, are candidates for reelection. James Gordon of Manchester, the third incumbent, is not a candidate.

Sterling Shafer, a farmer and construction contractor, elected to the board in April, 1962, is completing his first term. James Campbell, also a farmer, has served on the board since April, 1953.

The other candidates are Lloyd L. McNeese, a Manchester brickmason and Dee Bell, who farms in the Manchester area.

Polls will be open from noon until 7 p.m. April 10 at the Ailey and Manchester schools and the Scott County Court-house.

Absentee ballots will be received at the office of the office of the board of education beginning April 1.

All persons who are registered to vote in general elections may cast ballots in the school election.

Fair Board To Meet
The Scott County 4-H Show and Junior Agricultural Fair Association Board will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Farm Bureau building.

Plans for the 1965 Fair will be made. President Floyd Rolf has urged all board members to be present.

Accepts New Position
Ralph Barnett, who has been feed and plant food manager of Scott County Service Company since 1963, has resigned his position here and will become Schuyler-Brown Service Company assistant manager. His office will be in Mt. Sterling.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnett are the parents of two children, a son, Ralph Lynn, who is employed by the Woodford County Farm Service Company and a daughter, Mrs. Danny Little of Barry.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnett plant to move to Mt. Sterling as soon as arrangements can be made.

'Trees' Over $2000

Contributions to "Project Trees" passed the $2000 mark Saturday with substantial contributions donated Friday and Saturday in the amount of $129.23.

Lincoln Elementary school, which contributed $44.28 previously, added to their total in the amount of $4.23 to help the campaign to replant sections of Jacksonville with shade trees.

Although spring seemed far away Saturday, one heartening comment was heard around the square by a local.

He noted, "I know spring is here." A friend asked how he knew and the first answered, "Because the snow is green."

Although the weather has not been the best possible for tree planting, the longer the wait, sponsors agree, the more trees possible.

Contributions received Friday and Saturday were:

Harry L. Hall	$ 10.00
Mr. and Mrs. David L. Mudgett	$ 10.00
Lorraine F. Kline	$ 5.00
Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Colburn	$ 15.00

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Green	$ 10.00
Mr. and Mrs. Harris Rowe	$ 15.00
Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Renna	$ 10.00
Mrs. Carrie Mackness, Miss Barbara Mackness	$ 5.00
Bill, Shelley and Deedee Deutsch	$ 10.00
Dr. G. O. Webster	$ 10.00
Total	$ 129.23
Balance	$ 1024.99
Grand Total	$ 2054.32

WHERE TO SEND FUNDS FOR TREES

Contributions to the tree-planting fund may be sent to "Trees," Jacksonville Journal Courier, 235 West State street. Names of those donating between $4.50 and $15, the price range of the trees, will be published, unless otherwise designated.

Checks should be made payable to the Jacksonville Tree Planting Fund.

MOTHER OF SIX SEES GOVERNMENT ATTACH PAY CHECK

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — The United States government has attached the pay check of the mother of six children — and it may lose money in the involved process.

State's Atty. Hugh A. Henry gave this account of the case Saturday:

A wage levy was served Tuesday on the laundry where the woman works, attaching her $50-a-week pay until an income tax liability of $164.18 is paid.

The woman — she's 31, has six children ranging in age from 5 to 16 and an unemployed husband — turned to another branch of government for help Friday.

She applied for aid to dependent children at the McLean County Department of Public Aid. The superintendent, F. Russell Foster, said that — if she qualified — she probably would receive at least $250 a month.

The federal government pays 75 per cent of the cost of ADC. If the family received ADC benefits of $250 for one month, Uncle Sam would be paying $187.50 to collect the $164.18.

The woman also applied for emergency relief to Fred Winterroth, township supervisor. He said she would not lack for such necessities as groceries. Foster said $25 per person could be allowed for general assistance. So the family possibly may receive an additional $200 a month in that bracket.

"It seems to me the bigness of federal government has been extended to a local absurdity," Henry commented. "One government department has forced on the taxpayer, forcing her to holler 'uncle' to another department."

He declined to give the name of the Bloomington woman, saying relief applicants are supposed to be nameless. But he said she is white and does manual work.

Henry said the woman didn't want to go on the welfare rolls, so Foster and Winterroth asked the state's attorney for advice. He said Jay G. Philpott, director of the Internal Revenue Service in Springfield, had promised to investigate the case.

School Bus Crowd —

Statehouse Prime Stop For Tourists

By DICK EMERY
SPRINGFIELD — Imagine a day when 3,412 school children come filing through the State Capitol Building gawking, yelling, laughing, peering, studying, giggling, squirming and inquiring.

May 22, 1964 was such a day, with the largest number of school-age visitors on record here. Between now and the end of the current legislative session, an average of five to six school groups a day will visit the capitol.

The number of student visitors has almost doubled in the last six years. In 1958, 45,000 school kids came to the statehouse, and in 1964 nearly 80,000 visited the capitol.

Guides expect to add another 15,000 young visitors to this total by the end of this year including their best estimates of the "sleepers," school groups who will come in without advance notice.

"They still have to be guided and lectured like the rest," says Mort Berman, chief of the statehouse guide service.

Groups average from 40 to 50 including students and adult advisors. As this is written, 100 girl scouts from St. Louis were touring the building. Asked why they came to Springfield rather than Jefferson City (the Missouri capital) one sparkling lass answered "We've been there. We came here to find out about Mr. Lincoln."

The big season for the youthful visitors is approaching. "April, May and June are the heavy months, nearing the end of the school year," Berman notes. "But May itself is murder."

Saturday Biggest Day
Saturdays are the big day, he reports. "There is a rush to use school buses, which can't be used during school hours for the trips to Springfield," he says. "There have been as many as 2,100 youngsters pass through here on a Saturday, and that's the day we have only two guides working."

"Saturday is our biggest day, but the other days are big, too. There's no such thing as a slow day here." Six guides are on duty during weekdays.

45-Minute Average
A typical tour lasts about 45 minutes. While the legislature is in session the group spends 10 minutes in the gallery of each house, then visits the reception room of the Governor and the Secretary of State.

At other times, the groups are taken directly into the legislative chambers, where the guide lectures on the proceedings in each house.

Literature handed out at the guide desk in the rotunda includes the "Capitol Guide," a booklet outlining the history of Illinois' Capitols, explaining the present capitol building, and showing the other buildings which make up the capitol complex, including the state museum.

Other material explains the Lincoln Home, Tomb, and New Salem State Park, nearly always included in tours of

Art Gallery Benefit Patron List Growing

From the growing list of patrons for the 1965 Beaux Arts Ball, it is evident that the interest in the Jacksonville Art Association is stronger and more enthusiastic than ever. The funds from the ball enable the Association to offer even greater cultural contributions to the community.

Added to the list of patrons and patronesses as of March 25 are:

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Andras, Dr. and Mrs. Severyn T. Bruyn, Mrs. J. C. Colton, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd E. Cox, Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Dollear, Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Douglass, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest E. Dyer, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Dyer.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Eloc, Dr. and Mrs. Friedrich Engelbach, Mrs. Fred H. Enloe, Miss Mary Louise Enloe, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Floreth, Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kaiser, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Linebaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Magner, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Massey, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Pearce, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Perbix, Mrs. Willard Prewitt.

Mrs. Al Rosenberger, Dr. and Mrs. Ramon C. Sison, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Spink, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Stewart, Mr. Chester Thomason, Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Tomlin, Mrs. Bryce Wall, Mr. and Mrs. James D. Welch.

Beta Sigma Phi Chapters

Members of Omega chapter met March 22nd at the Bowling Center for recreation and later went to the home of the president for a business session.

The slate of new officers presented includes: Jo Foster, president; Norma Neff, vice president; Kay Marshall, recording secretary; Betty Bussey, treasurer and Joyce Veness, corresponding secretary.

The Founders Day banquet on April 26th was brought to attention of members and reservation deadline given as April 19th. The rummage sale for the chapter is May 8th.

Moynock Hockensmith gave an interesting program on People. At the close of the evening delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. Lola Johnson delightfully entertained members of Xi Lambda chapter at a St. Patrick's party at her home, 605 North Church street. The president, Margaret Fitzpatrick conducted a short business session for the 12 members present.

Mrs. McMahon, mother of the hostess, was a guest. Minutes were read by the secretary, Ina Stewart and Ada Dobbis gave the treasurer's report. Members having birthdays in February and March contributed to the birthday bank.

Lola Johnson reported on volunteer service at the Passavant hospital Gift Shoppe.

Alpha Qu and Bernita Dodson reported on attending the City Council March 10th meeting held at the home of Ruth Jean Cisne.

Reservations for the Founder's Day banquet to be held April 26th at Jacksonville Country Club are to be made by April 19th.

The chapter has sent its donation toward the five hundred dollar pledge from ten active chapters in Beta Sigma Phi in Jacksonville for the Eddy Memorial Fund, to the YMCA building fund.

The proposed slate of officers was accepted without opposition and included:

Alvahlee McCarthy, president; Ada Dobbis, vice president; Eva Daniel, recording secretary; Ruth Ranson, corresponding secretary and Esther Ingoglia, treasurer.

Margaret Fitzpatrick and Alvahlee McCarthy will represent the chapter at meetings of the City Council for B.S.P.

St. Patrick's bridge was played with prizes going to Ruth Ranson, Margaret Fitzpatrick and Esther Ingoglia. The hostess served delicious refreshments in keeping with the St. Patrick's theme. Mrs. McMahon assisted her daughter in serving.

The next meeting will be at 6:30 p.m. April 5th at the Dunlap Motor Inn.

Zeta Beta chapter met Mar. 8 held at the home of Jean Bailey. Assistant hostesses were Connie Roegge and Nancy Schindler.

The chapter's four pledges, Ellender Morris, Pat Prather, Nancy Schindler, and Catherine Templin, very ably presented the history and purposes of Beta Sigma Phi. They have been instructed during the past several months by vice president Barbara Gross, and will be fully initiated with the Ritual of Jewels on April 12.

Two topics were presented, "The History of Dress" by Nancy Ingram, and "The Art of Dress" by Carolyn Kuklies. The nominating committee Committees working for this year's benefit Beaux Arts Ball are busy meeting mornings, afternoons and evenings. Two important such groups are pictured above.

At the top are members of the general ticket committee, for tickets for non-patrons who will be attending the festivities on Saturday, April 24th. Pictured in the home of one of the co-chairmen, Mrs. J. Harry Dowland are, from left, Mrs. Merle Ingels, also a co-chairman, Mrs. Al Rosenberger, Mrs. Edwin Cisne, Mrs. Dowland holding the family poodle, "Andy," Mrs. William Doyle, Mrs. Edward A. Jackson, Mrs. K. E. Vasconcellos and Mrs. Friedrich Engelbach. Other members of this committee are Mrs. Paul Langdon and Mrs. Alfred J. Henderson.

The committee in charge of the Open House and reception to be held at the David Strawn Art Gallery, immediately after the Coronation ceremonies at the Jacksonville High School gym, and just prior to the Ball at the Dunlap Motor Inn, are pictured below at the Richard Lukeman home. Left to right, Mrs. Richard Cody, Mrs. Hugh Green, Mrs. David Long, Mrs. William Zachary, Mrs. William Dawdy, co-chairmen Mrs. Lukeman and Mrs. Cary Andras, Mrs. William Davidsmeyer and Mrs. C. Leple Kanatzar. Also serving on this committee are Mrs. Robert Sibert, Mrs. Howard Corey and Mrs. J. Brant.

Melinda Lee Hull

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Hull of Louisville, Kentucky of the engagement of their daughter, Melinda Lee, to Phillip Frederick Hathaway, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip F. Hathaway, Sr., of Upper St. Clair Township, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. The bride-elect's father formerly resided in Jacksonville and is the son of Mrs. Elin A. Hull, 232 Park street and the late Mr. Hull.

Miss Hull is a junior at University of Kentucky. Mr. Hathaway attended Bullis Preparatory School in Silver Springs, Maryland; University of Kentucky and will receive his degree from Eastern Kentucky State College in June. He is a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

The couple will be married August seventh in St. Matthew's Episcopal church in Louisville.

presented a slate of officers to be voted upon at the April 12 meeting. Members were reminded of the rummage sale to be held on March 26 and 27.

On March 10 Zeta Beta chapter was presented an award by the Jacksonville State Hospital for devoted service since 1959 to the men residing at the "Red Farm."

Each month, through participation in the Volunteer Services Program, chapter members visit these patients with refreshments and games, and have been their only source of entertainment and regular contact with the community.

The March 22 social meeting was held at the home of Nancy Schindler. Bridge was enjoyed during the evening, with prizes awarded to Pat Prather, Carolyn Kuklies, and Irene Bailey.

Healthy Skin Can Be Yours

Diet and exercise play a major part in controlling teenage skin problems. Get plenty of sleep, be active in sports or take long walks, clean your face thoroughly daily and avoid fried foods, chocolates, nuts and carbonated drinks. If your face or neck breaks out, wash gently with a cleanser recommended by a doctor.

China Grows Stronger

It is a cardinal rule in the conduct of international affairs that we should learn as much as possible about other governments, especially those that are hostile to our interests. With regard to Communist China this rule has been honored more in the breach than in the observance. Most Americans know little about mainland China, and even generally well informed men and women are often poorly informed about this nation of some 700 million people.

One result of this widespread ignorance has been the dangerous business of concluding that what many would like to believe is true—that the Chinese economy is feeble and sluggish. It should be noted that, according to the Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East, this view does not jibe with the facts. Like it or not, Communist China appears to have gained more economically last year than at any time since the big setbacks of 1959-61.

This does not warrant any big pendulum swing to the belief that everything is rosy in China. By U.S. standards, the Chinese economy is weak. But the proper measure to apply in a case of this kind is the rate of growth rather than relative strength. On that basis, China made substantial progress last year. Both grain and livestock production reportedly went up by several percentage points, there were large increases in the production of other foods, and there also was considerable industrial expansion.

It is important for Americans to know of such things. It is important that we not delude ourselves and scorn China as a backward nation that never will amount to much by Western standards. The fact appears to be that China is growing in economic strength. This must be taken into proper account in whatever policies we adopt regarding that nation.

Coin Reform Coming

Before long Congress is going to be confronted with the touchy job of deciding what to do about silver coinage. The nub of the matter is that, even though minting of dimes, quarters and 50-cent pieces has not kept pace with demand, we still are using silver at a rate far higher than production. Essentially, Congress must decide whether to reduce—and how much—or eliminate silver from our coinage.

Reduction of coins' silver content would under the circumstances, be no more than a holding action. There are such heavy industrial demands for silver that no significant increase in the supply available for coinage is in sight. Cutting down the amount of silver in coins would delay but not solve the crisis.

A number of other proposals have been made. Some silver producers think it would be good to double the value of silver coins and also the price of silver. This would benefit the producers handsomely, but silver-using industry would be hard hit by such a price boost and there would be a big problem of public adjustment. Reduction in the size of silver coins, as has been suggested, also would be confusing and would create problems for the vending machine operators.

It is now expected that the Treasury Department will recommend elimination of silver from coins that now have a silver content. Congress may not go along with this right away, but there seems little doubt that we will come to it before much time has passed. The pressures for coinage reform point in that direction.

Another Walk in Space

Washington Heat Is On Congress, States In Reapportionment Issue

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The hottest political issue in the United States today is not civil rights, nor Medicare, nor the poverty war. It is reapportionment.

When an unsung Republican member of the Maryland House of Delegates said "this is a battle for political control of the country," she was not overstating.

If the present intense court and other pressures for both congressional and state legislative reapportionment go unstemmed, the 1966 and 1968 elections may produce the greatest short-range political power shifts in the nation's history. The 1966 maps of lawmakers' districts will make the 1964 configuration look like something from Magellan's time. Cities and suburbs will gain.

At the congressional level, a top Republican estimates that next year 25 per cent of the 435 U.S. House members will be running in districts whose borders will be drawn differently than today's. For some the changes could spell political death.

More than high court edicts may soon be operative in this field. Full passage is expected this year for Rep. Emanuel Celler's committee-approved bill which would provide that population totals in congressional districts could vary in size no more than 15 per cent either way from an agreed average.

Such a measure would affect many districts long untouched, since congressional reapportionment generally has occurred only when states have gained or lost seats after a decennial census.

The Celler bill has the hard prod of realism — if Congress sets limits assuring reasonable population balance, it is figured the courts will be less likely hereafter to step in.

Meantime, roughly 10 states have undertaken federal reapportionment since the 1964 elections. The list includes Maryland, Ohio (last fall), Virginia, Texas, Indiana, Kansas, South Dakota, Idaho, Oregon. Others may follow.

The turbulence at the state level is incredible, with most of the legislatures convening this year finding themselves under the necessity to redistrict. Many have federal court deadlines that compel action before the 1966 elections.

Those states have no real hope of avoiding reapportionment altogether. The prospect they cling to is that, in the end, they may be allowed to apportion one house on the basis of factors other than population—notwithstanding the U.S. Supreme Court's 1964 "one man-one vote" edict.

Two approaches toward that goal are being taken. Roughly a score of state legislatures have endorsed resolutions that petition Congress to call a convention to adopt a constitutional amendment which specifically would permit reapportionment on an "other factors" basis.

While this heat builds at the state level, the Senate (to be joined by the House next month) is undertaking hearings on a similar constitutional amendment sponsored by 38 senators. This proposal would demand final approval of state redistricting plans by a popular referendum.

If either a convention or Congress itself approved such an amendment, it would, of course, have to be ratified by the legislatures of 38 states.

The roadblocks to both these approaches are substantial. It is presently doubted that the needed two-thirds House and Senate majorities can be mustered for a constitutional amendment this year or next.

Observers of state affairs believe state action will fall short of the necessary 34 states for a convention call on the issue.

Probably Congress would act if the state total got close. The convention method of changing the Constitution never has been successfully used. It is distrusted, since a convention could act on any subject it chose.

But even if Congress did act one way or another, ratification by the required 38 states is a dim prospect. By the time the issue could come before many legislatures, they may already have been torn from their old rural moorings and re-oriented toward cities and suburbs whose lawmakers would insist on "one man-one vote."

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There is optimism in the Hollywood air and with good reason: the coming television season looks to be the healthiest in history for the major studios.

The film companies were late in entering television production, whether through lack of vision or fear of antagonizing theater owners. Almost too late, the studios discovered new economic facts of life. They could scarcely survive without the steady production for television to help support the risky business of making features.

Except for MCA, which entered television before it even owned a studio, the big companies went after the market in a sometimes sketchy manner. That's true no more. Nearly all the studios have launched major campaigns to sell series. The results can be seen in the 1965-66 season.

The big success story is 20th Century-Fox. A season ago, it had nearly a series on the networks. This year it scored with "Peyton Place," "Daniel Boone," and "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea" all slated for renewal, plus "Valentine's Day," which may make the grade.

Fox expects to have five more series on the networks in the coming season: "Lost in Space" (Guy Williams - June Lockhart); "Long, Hot Summer" (Edmond O'Brien); "Jesse James" (Chris Jones); "The Loner" (Lloyd Bridges); "Sally and Sam" (Gary Lockwood-Cynthia Pepper).

MGM lost "Mr. Novak" but renewed "Dr. Kildare" (in half-hours Monday and Tuesday), "Flipper" and "The Man from U.N.C.L.E." New series will be "Please Don't Eat the Daisies" with Mark Miller and Pat Crowley and a new Robert Horton western, "The Man from Shenandoah."

Warner Bros. is scoring a major comeback, despite the apparent losses of "No Time for Sergeants" and "Wendy and Me." The Burbank lot is fielding "The F.B.I." with Efrem Zimbalist Jr., while his onetime "77 Sunset Strip" pal, Roger Smith, is selling as "Mister Roberts." Warners also has landed a pair of comedies: "F Troop" with Forest Tucker and Larry Storch and "Hank" with Dick Kallman.

FINDING THE WAY

Reconsidering Discipline

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There's good sense in reconsidering discipline in these Lenten days. Not just the negative discipline of giving up some luxury but the positive discipline of keeping life meaningful. That's been important in other generations. It's imperative now.

A few years ago a young woman told me of her experience as a child when her mother was concerned about her desire to wander down the street. The mother took a clothesline, tied one end to her daughter and the other to the porch. It was a procedure that would upset a psychologist but it worked.

Now she is a young woman. Once she was restrained by a rope; now she is constrained by a sense of honor. Once she was disciplined by external restraint; now she is disciplined by an inner constraint. It is this developing, maturing discipline that is the mark of courage and patience.

Father Pierre Teilhard de Chardin put it this way: "Stronger than every obstacle and counterargument is the instinct which tells us that to be faithful to life, we must know; we must know more and still more; we must tirelessly and unceasingly search for something, we know not what, which will appear in the end to those who have penetrated to the very heart of reality." He was talking about the necessity of growing, searching and maturing.

That requires discipline.

The need for restraint in thought, in words, and in action has never been more apparent. The unrestrained use of force or of anger or of thoughtlessness can throw the whole planet into horror. This same restlessness which knows no constraint can as easily wreck our own communities. There is that ceaseless search to know more and more about the miracle of reconciling men. That requires the infinite, persistent patience of a great discipline.

Our very freedom demands that we grow beyond the "clothesline" type of living; that same freedom demands an understanding of the constraints of love. That's why it's an important thrust of a great religious faith which gives sense and meaning to a mature discipline. Our freedom is the freedom of discipline. Our discipline is the product of a growing awareness of One who is remembered as a suffering servant.

The Mature Parent Skip the Heroics

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: After three years of torture and indecision, I have told my husband that I will free him to marry the woman who has broken up our home. He has left the house. Our two boys, 7 and 10, don't suspect this because their father has been away so much this past year. I know I can't tell them the truth without showing how hurt and bitter I am. Because I know this would be psychologically damaging to them, I wonder if you think I should ask our family doctor to break the news.

ANSWER: I intensely resent this popular psychological instruction to be serenely objective when we tell children our marriages have collapsed. I regard it as cruel and unrealistic. We cannot hide our natural hurt and bitterness from the children. That's why the instruction is unrealistic. It is cruel because it suggests that we should be afraid of these feelings. At the very time when our chief feeling is terror that we have failed the children, we are told that we can further fail if we give them any inkling of our sufferings. It's an assignment just too complicated and too heroic for ordinary human flesh and blood to manage. Indeed, the tensions involved in trying to put on acts of serene objectivity on such occasions could only make the telling of our news as terrifying an ordeal for the children as it is for us.

It is my view that we should accept ourselves as the wounded person we are. After so acknowledging ourselves to the children, we should say in effect: "I will get over my anger at daddy. So you don't have to worry about my crying and complaining like this forever. I won't. But now I am as hurt and angry at him as I would be at you if you left me to go off and live with some other lady you liked better."

We don't uproot a marriage as we uproot carrots from gardens. It was sown in our hearts' deepest hopes. So to me there's something a little crazy about this counsel which would have us announce its end with the calm we might use to say, "My vacuum cleaner is broken." Indeed, were I a child so informed that my mother had lost my father, my feeling would be, "Maybe this woman who takes losing daddy so lightly wouldn't mind losing me, either."

American Menu Eggs Provide Protein

By GAYNOR MADDON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—Can I use eggs in my meatless dishes and still provide enough protein for my growing children? Will the egg protein cost me more than meat?

A—Eggs are a main dish bargain because they provide high quality protein at low cost. The U.S. Department of Agriculture compared the cost of the quantities of different meats and meat alternates needed to furnish equal amounts of protein and found eggs to be one of the most economical. In addition to offering protein value, eggs are an important source of iron, several of the B vitamins, particularly of riboflavin, and vitamins A and D.

Q—My husband is active and has a good appetite. I know his meals must supply a lot of protein. Can you suggest some relatively inexpensive foods that will supply good protein?

A—The costs, at recent prices in one metropolitan supermarket, of some commonly used and relatively inexpensive main dish items in the amount needed to provide one-third of the recommended daily allowance of protein for a normally active man are shown below:

	Food Cost 1-3 day's protein (cents)

Bolsters "Let Down" Dads' Morale

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the 13-year-old boy who said he was a nervous wreck because of his four-year-old sister brought back memories.

I spent five years in the delivery section of a maternity ward. Every expectant father wanted his first born to be a boy. Half of them, of course, were disappointed—and said so. I used to think it was terrible the way some of those dopes even told their wives they were "let down."

I made it a practice to get the disappointed fathers to one side and tell them it is always better to have a girl first because as she grows older and is told to watch her little brothers and sisters it will come naturally and she will enjoy it. When a boy is told to watch his younger brothers and sisters, however, he is ready to pack his toys and leave home.

I've often wondered if those fathers remembered what I had told them, as the years went by. I hope so. —MEMORIES

Dear Ann Landers: I hope "not." I'd hate to think that yours is the best reason to rejoice over the birth of a daughter. Is a daughter important only because she can save you some baby-sitting money?

A father who would complain because he didn't "get what he wanted" is immature and stupid.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 17-year-old high school senior and have been going steady with a 22-year-old fellow. Tim has had two years of college and is now working for his father.

Also, my parents would go into orbit if they knew so I have not told them. Tim knows how my folks feel and suggested I just keep the ring in the toe of a shoe until I graduate from high school, and then tell them.

I'm afraid if I give the ring back he may be hurt and give it to someone else on the rebound. I need some advice. —RING AROUND ROSIE

Dear Rosie: An engagement ring is no decoration and you know it. Give the ring back to Tim and tell him to keep it in the toe of "his" shoe or better still, suggest that he take it back to the jewelry store.

Dear Ann Landers: I married Ralph a year and a half ago. He is a great guy who had been ditched by a gold digger.

Two weeks before the wedding she drove out of his life in the new car he had given her as an engagement present. Ralph newspaper enclosing a stamped, owes a balance of $350 on that self-addressed envelope.

So this is my question: Ralph and I filed our income tax jointly. We will soon be getting back about $375 from the government because we overpaid last year. Should I let Ralph take that money and pay off his obligation on the car? Or should I take the half that rightfully belongs to me and buy myself something nice?

Most of the people I've asked feel I should be a good sport and give Ralph my half. But I don't want to be a sap. This obligation was incurred before I knew Ralph and I honestly resent it. —BALLERINA

Dear Ball: Help Ralph pay off the debt by kicking in your half of the refund check. What an ideal way to show him you are a Number One Number Two Girl.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Area Pork Producers Visit U. I. Hog Farm, Hear Project Reports

Many west central Illinois pork producers went to Urbana last Tuesday to attend the annual Swine Day program offered by the U. I. College of Agriculture.

In the morning they inspected the experimental hog farms south of the campus, looked over new equipment set up by manufacturers, ate a barbecued ham luncheon and heard reports on the progress or failure of the many experimental projects the College constantly undertakes.

Among the varied reports were:

Antibiotics Reduce Travel Stress

Research indicates that antibiotics may have a role to play when pigs are moved from one farm to another.

"Such a move usually brings the pigs into contact with different bacterial groups than they are accustomed to," reported animal scientist W. F. Nickelson. "Therefore they have not the built up natural antibodies needed to combat the new organisms."

In the study, pigs that received antibiotic medication after a move from the U. of I. Moore Farm to the University's Swine Nutrition Farm gained 36 per cent faster than littermates that received no medication.

Further proof of the stress the move created was shown among control groups that received no antibiotic medication. Untreated pigs transferred from the Moore Farm to the Nutrition Farm grew significantly slower and showed poorer feed efficiency than untreated littermates that were not moved.

In a concurrent test, pigs moved weekly from one location to another on the same farm and mixed in with other litters failed to show any signs of stress, even though fighting between litters was common after each move. Nickelson said that the pigs were on test from a weight of 35 pounds to 100 pounds.

Alfalfa Pasture For Gilts, Sows
Alfalfa pasture provided the nutrient equivalent of one pound of ration daily per sow for gestating sows and gilts in University of Illinois research this past summer.

The study indicated that one acre of alfalfa pasture has a feed replacement value of about $25, based on current feed prices and a pasture stocking rate of 10 sows or gilts per acre.

D. E. Becker said that sows receiving three pounds of feed per head daily on pasture made the same gains as sows receiving four pounds of feed per head daily in drylot.

Becker also noted that farrowing and litter performance during early lactation might not be good measures of the ideal feeding level for sows and gilts during gestation.

Pregnant sows and gilts in the study were divided into four groups. One group received four pounds of ration per head daily on drylot. The other three groups were put on alfalfa pasture and fed four, three or two pounds of ration per head daily.

"The different levels of feed fed during gestation on alfalfa pasture did not affect the number of pigs farrowed, pig birth weights or weaning weights at two weeks of age," Becker said. "Farrowing and weaning records were about the same for sows and gilts on drylot as for those fed on pasture."

However, the different rations did have varying effects on the gilts and sows.

In one trial (about 70 days), gestating gilts receiving four pounds of ration in drylot gained 51.3 pounds—compared with a gain of 67.5 pounds for those receiving four pounds of ration on pasture. 40 pounds for those getting three pounds of ration on pasture, and 17.8 pounds for those receiving only two pounds of ration on pasture.

In an 80-day trial with sows, those receiving four pounds of ration in drylot gained 40.5 pounds up to farrowing. At the same time, sows getting four pounds of ration on pasture gained 54.4 pounds; those getting three pounds of ration on pasture gained 40.6 pounds and those receiving two pounds of ration on pasture gained 2.8 pounds.

Simple Way To End Baby Pig Anemia

B. G. Harmon of the animal science department reported research indicated that one of the simplest methods for preventing baby pig anemia may be to mix iron sulfate with some of the regular swine ration and drop it slower and showed poorer feed efficiency than untreated littermates that were not moved.

Harmon said anemia prevention techniques tested in this study included iron dextran injected at three days of age; iron sulfate solution sprayed on the sow's udder three times a week; "Illinois 16" grower ration with 10 per cent iron sulfate added; peat moss with iron sulfate added; and high-iron mineral pellets.

The Illinois 16, peat moss and the mineral pellets were placed on wooden overlays in the slatted floor farrowing crates twice a week until the pigs were 14 days old. Iron dextran was injected into half of the pigs in each litter at three days of age to see whether the added iron would boost performance.

Harmon said the pigs with access to iron combined with Illinois 16, peat moss or trace-mineral pellets, and all pigs receiving iron injections produced similar hemoglobin values at 14 days of age.

Hemoglobin values were lower for the pigs with access only to iron sulfate solution sprayed on the sow's udders. In fact, these pigs were approaching borderline anemia.

Harmon said that pigs receiving the Illinois 16-iron sulfate mixture gained faster than pigs on the other treatments, indicating that they were probably utilizing some of the nutrients in the ration.

The U. of I. researcher pointed out that Illinois 16-iron sulfate mixture would cost swine growers about 10 to 12 cents per litter for complete anemia prevention over a five-week period.

Other reports dealt with gases and odors in confinement hog systems. The researchers said there was no danger to either people or hogs from the methane gases generated in the house and that they were studying a continuous paddlingwheel in an oxidation ditch to keep objectionable manure odors from building up.

Forward Bill To Speed End Of Brucellosis

A bill aimed at speeding up the eradication of brucellosis in cattle has won approval in the Illinois House of Representatives Agriculture committee.

The bill, which is supported by the Illinois Department of Agriculture, would require that all cattle sold, traded, loaned, or leased in Illinois for purposes other than slaughter be given a negative brucellosis test within 60 days prior to the date of transfer. Under present law only cattle that are sold for purposes other than slaughter must be tested for brucellosis.

Under provisions of the bill a bull loaned to a neighbor would have to be tested for brucellosis within 60 days prior to the transfer. The bill also would have to be tested before being returned to the owner. In other words, each time that a cow or bull would be transferred a brucellosis test would have to be made by a veterinarian.

The bill would not apply to cattle that have been vaccinated for brucellosis and are under 30 months of age. However, once a female animal reached 30 months of age, a brucellosis test would be required before it could be sold, traded, loaned, or leased.

ILLINOIS OUTLOOK LETTER

WILL THE DOLLAR BE DEVALUED?

Are you interested in money? Then you should be interested in some questions that are being discussed in many places. For example:

1. Will the U.S. dollar be devalued?

2. If so, when?

3. How would devaluation affect your business or income?

First, we should point out that devaluation of the dollar is not being advocated by public officials. The Administration is moving to reduce the amount of gold reserves that must be kept on hand. This is not devaluation.

Devaluation is a reduction of the amount of gold that is represented by each dollar. Today a dollar represents 1-35 of an ounce of gold. Foreign governments and banks get gold from our vaults in exchange for dollars at a rate of $35 for an ounce of gold.

To devalue the dollar we would raise the price of gold, say to $40 an ounce. That would make our dollar equal to 1-40 of an ounce of gold. This would be 12 1/2 percent less than now.

Imports, Exports First.
Raising the price of gold, devaluing the dollar, would not have much immediate or direct effect upon our wages, nor upon prices of things manufactured and sold in the United States. It would, however, have a large impact upon the prices and sales of products moving across our national boundary lines.

We would gain some advantage in our export business (provided other countries did not retaliate by devaluing their currencies, too). Here's why: Like the United States, other leading countries also base their money on gold. The British pound, for example, represents 2-25 of an ounce of gold. This makes the pound equal to $2.80. Devaluing the dollar by 12 1/2 percent would lower the value of each dollar so that it would take $3.20 to exchange for a pound.

The cost of American manufactured products sold in Britain would be reduced, and this would stimulate sales of U.S. products in Britain. At the same time the costs of British products sold in the United States would be raised, reducing our purchases. Prices and trade with other nations would be affected similarly.

Others Would Follow
If we could sell enough more and buy enough less, other countries would stop taking our gold, and start shipping it to us—to pay for their big purchases here.

But other countries probably would not let us solve our gold problem so simply. Some other countries, especially Britain, also have gold problems. If we were to devalue our dollar by any substantial amount, Britain and several other countries likely would also devalue their currencies by about the same amounts. This would prevent us from gaining any big advantage in international trade. Without gaining such an advantage we would still have the problem of keeping our gold at home.

Raising the price of gold would help everyone who owns or produces gold, just as raising the price of cattle would help cattlemen. It would also stimulate the production of gold and reduce its use in industry.

In the long run, devaluing the dollar would tend to be inflationary—by increasing the amount of money and credit that can be made available with any given amount of gold.

Chapin Grain Co-Op Begins 57th Year

The Chapin Farmers Elevator, the oldest farm cooperative in this area and one of the oldest in Illinois, has begun its 57th year with the board electing the same officers.

Chester A. Thomason has been president for 32 years and H. P. Joy is beginning his 57th year as secretary treasurer.

Arlo Schumacher is vice president and board members are Edwin Lakamp, Leland Werries and Henry Pahlmann, with Carroll Brockhouse the manager.

The stockholders unanimously reelected the entire board at the annual meeting held March 6 in the Chapin high school gymnasium.

Following invocation by Rev. E. A. Feisel, pastor of Chapin Christian church, a ham luncheon was served by the Chapin P.T.A. Music was furnished by band students of Triopia high school.

President Thomason presided and introduced the many guests of the company, including Farm Adviser and Mrs. George Trull; John Chambers, Farm Bureau secretary of organization; Jim Henderson, Farm Bureau insurance agency manager; Manager and Mrs. James Bunting of the Service Co., and Alfred Enke, assistant manager; Ollie Cain and Don Haven of the Illinois Grain Corp.; three former managers of the elevator; Fred Muntman, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Jewsbury and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jewsbury; Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Schumacher of Burrus Seed Farms; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Nickel of Morgan-Scott Hybrids Co.; Eb Benson and M. R. Fitzsimmons, Murphy Feeds; Paul Heinrich, Herbert Hinners and Leland Lettich, A.B.C. Fertilizer Co.

The employees of the cooperative were also introduced: Carol Brockhouse, Wayne Thompson, Kenneth Atchison, Raymond Wolters and Marland Ommen.

Credentials appointed were: Credentials, Ed Lakamp, Roy Nickel, Melvin Gusch, Nominations, Roy VanGundy, Charles Williams and Don Reining.

The secretary-treasurer's report was read by H. P. Joy. A 47 percent dividend on capital stock was declared, with a patronage dividend of 3c per bushel on grain and 6 1/2% on merchandise.

Total profit for the year was $48,746.89 and the net worth of the cooperative was put at $297,428.41, from an original investment in 1908 of $5,750.

Last year the elevator handled 661,073 bushels of grain and sold merchandise valued at $22,316.86. Manager Brockhouse reported.

A drawing for door prizes, conducted by Theodore Surratt, closed the annual meeting.

House Group Approves Foreign Beef Labeling

A bill affecting foreign beef imports coming into the state has won approval in the Illinois House of Representatives Agriculture committee.

The Democratic-controlled agriculture committee ignored top party leaders who wanted the bill killed in committee at the request of the Illinois Retail Merchants association. The bill, if passed by the legislature, would require that all foreign beef and beef products imported into Illinois be labeled as such. The bill also provides, as result of an amendment, that imported foreign beef that is mixed with domestic beef be identified on the label. At the present time, large quantities of cheap foreign beef trimmings are being mixed with domestic beef trimmings and sold as hamburger.

The chief sponsor of the bill, John W. Lewis, Jr. (R-McShall), who was speaker of the House during the 1963 session, said that people have a right to know what they are eating. He said that other items that the housewife buys list the country where the products were manufactured or processed.

Lewis said that cattle feeders in Illinois favor the bill. The Illinois Agricultural association also supports the bill.

Opposition to the bill came from a representative of the Illinois Retail Merchants association who said there are not enough good domestic beef trimmings in supply to mix with the fat from beef carcasses to make hamburger, and this is why foreign beef has to be imported.

Lewis said that if the packers would pay a little more for the cutter and canner grades of domestic cattle—the type that is best suited for hamburger and other cheap meat products—farmers would meet the so-called shortage without any problem.

Robert Craig (D-Indianola) charged that the reason retailers don't want to label foreign beef as such is because they are afraid the housewife won't buy it.

Greene County 4-H Boys Aim At Corn Yields

CARROLLTON — Any boy in Greene County who wants to participate in the 4-H Club X-Tra Yield Corn project may enroll before May 1 in the office of David Hembrough, assistant county farm adviser.

In preparation for this project a 4-H corn project clinic was held last week in the Farm Bureau building, the topic being "Increasing Your Corn Production." The speakers were Darrell Whitlock of Carrollton, the 1964 county winner in the X-Tra Yield contest; Dale Wachtel, manager of the Greene County Service company, who discussed the use of fertilizer and how to use it efficiently and Hembrough, who discussed the importance of cash grain crops and conditions necessary for a successful corn crop.

To quote from an American Walnut Manufacturers' association press release, "Walnut has long been one of America's most valued hardwoods. It brings consistently higher returns per thousand board feet than any other species."

"The wood, famed for its matchless beauty of grain, its durability and other desirable characteristics, is known as the prestige wood for cabinetry, furniture, paneling, architectural uses and novelties. It is recognized as the superior gunstock wood."

Demand Booms
Walnut is big business. Demand for it jumped to 36.5 million board feet last year.

State stock of walnut seedlings, priced currently at $10 per thousand seedlings, are for sale at Mason Nursery, Topeka. These seedlings are available for reforestation purposes only. To reduce delivery costs and to facilitate packing, no less than 500 plants may be ordered. Orders will be accepted this year until Friday, April 16. Privately owned tree planting machines are available for larger projects in many sections of Illinois. A machine can plant 4,000 trees on four acres

THE association, which is made up of Logan, Sangamon, Menard, Cass, Morgan and Scott counties, is growing steadily and now has a membership of 523. It now employs three fieldmen, located in Lincoln, Springfield and Jacksonville, and there is a strong possibility that a fourth fieldman will be employed soon.

THIS YEAR'S SEED GERMINATION HIGH, SOME EXCEPTIONS

Very few oats and soybean seed samples are coming to the Farm Bureau to be tested for germination this spring, but most of the samples checked have shown excellent germination. This reflects the almost perfect weather experienced at harvest time last year.

In some years the seed testing laboratory at the Farm Bureau is swamped by samples sent in by farmers who wonder whether their seed was up to par. This is particularly true when the previous combining season was unfavorable.

Mrs. Irene Vernor, Farm Bureau soil and seed laboratory technician, reports that while the samples are few and germination generally high she had one sample of soybeans that tested only 75% viable and one sample of oats was completely dead, didn't produce a single antrout.

Reservations for the April 6 dinner meeting can be made at the County Extension office in Jacksonville, or through members of the committee in charge of arrangements. Dean Walpole, Eddie Hymes and Lynden Heale are members of the committee.

Ivan Johannas, of the National Livestock and Meat Board, Chicago, will speak at the Ladies' Night program of the Morgan County Pork Producers association, Richard DeOrnellas, president, announced this week.

The dinner meeting will be held at Hamilton's in Jacksonville, April 6, 6 o'clock, Tuesday evening. All pork producers and wives are invited.

Plans will be made for the possible organization of wives of producers in a Morgan County "Porkettes" association. A representative of the statewide organization of "Porkettes" will be present to explain the state pork queen contest.

State Foresters Seek To Maintain Walnut Stands In Illinois

SPRINGFIELD — A few years ago a man visited briefly with an Illinois farmer. The man had a check for $1,300 made out to the farmer for the timber rights on a few acres of bottomland.

When timber was mentioned the farmer said, "I know all about you people. I won't take a cent less than $1,200 for that timber."

The man smiled, shoved the check deeper in his pocket, and made out another for the lesser amount. In a short time a crew cleared the timber. It was later estimated by State Forester Eino Nuuttila that the stranger netted $25,000 from that sale of timber. Walnut logs represented the bulk of the profit.

During World War II, men were going about the country posing as government timber buyers. They were especially concerned with walnut, and whenever they found a good stand they would make an offer, even go as far as condemning the trees which they claimed the armed forces needed for gunstocks. The FBI was called in to thwart those latter-day timber pirates.

Veneer Logs Valuable
Two years ago an Illinois physician planted 40,000 walnut seedlings. Last year he bought 30,000 more. Why is walnut so popular? It might be explained this way: Walnut seedlings from the Illinois Department of Conservation cost $10 a thousand. A tree matures in 40 years and, a fully matured veneer-quality walnut tree brings from $150 to $500. Naturally enough this 40-year wait before the realization of profit has caused a grab for fully matured matured walnuts growing in Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.

To quote from an American Walnut Manufacturers' association press release, "Walnut has long been one of America's most valued hardwoods. It brings consistently higher returns per thousand board feet than any other species."

"The wood, famed for its matchless beauty of grain, its durability and other desirable characteristics, is known as the prestige wood for cabinetry, furniture, paneling, architectural uses and novelties. It is recognized as the superior gunstock wood."

in one afternoon. In all Illinois counties detailed field help may be obtained from one of the State Farm Foresters whose offices are in Anna, Benton, Cambridge, Charleston, Effingham, Fairfield, Geneva, Harrisburg, Havana, Hillsboro, Jerseyville, Macomb, Murphysboro, Olney, Oregon, and Sparta. A personal request is all that is needed to secure this free professional guidance in the planting of walnut.

If you're an Illinois farmer and have a walnut tree in your yard, State Forester Eino E. Nuuttila, 106 State Office Building, Springfield, Ill., before making the deal.

Nuuttila will send a man to estimate the true worth of your walnut.

Incidentally, if you live in town and have a walnut tree in your backyard it's doubtful if you can make a sale. Through the years the kids have had the practice of driving nails into the trees. These nails cannot be detected and since high-speed saw blades are expensive, lumber scouts would rather not take a chance.

THE seriousness of the plight of the walnut industry may well be imagined from the revised standards of Uncle Sam's Commerce Department concerning the thickness of walnut veneer. The veneer may now be trimmed to a thickness of 1/36th of an inch. This reduction from 1/28th of an inch has caused an industry-wide flap, particularly among retailers who may curtail their buying of walnut furniture. At any rate, companies representing more than 95 per cent of the walnut veneer-producing industry voted unanimously to convert their production to 1/36-inch thickness in accordance with the recommendation of the U.S. Department of Commerce's conservation program.

How About Here
Will we run out of walnut in Illinois? Not if the Illinois Department of Conservation, Division of Forestry has anything to say about it. The division has responsibility for the four million acres of woodland in Illinois and over three million acres of submarginal and idle land. Ninety per cent of this land is privately owned and the division works directly with the landowners in fire control, timber management and reforestation. Technical advice and guidance in all phases of forestry is made available through 14 farm and five district foresters.

For a number of years Boy Scouts and 4-H Clubs have collected walnuts for the division, furnishing over a third of the seed needed. Walnuts are cleaned and placed in moist sand during the winter months and the seedlings produced are sold a year later.

WHEN IS YOUR BIRTHDAY?

Two weeks before your birthday send your name, parents name, address, birthdate and age to the Junior Page Editor, Jacksonville Journal Courier, and you may march in the Birthday Parade nearest your birthday. Send a photo if you wish, and this may be picked up at the newspaper office as soon as the picture has appeared in the paper.

LORI JEAN VAN HYNING writes (with some help), "I live with my Daddy and Mommy, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Van Hynning of Moline. My mother is the former Ethel Garman. I was one year old on March 20. I have a sister, Cynthia, and a brother John, who will march later. My Grandmother is Olga Garman, Jacksonville, and my Grandpa and Grandma are Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Van Hynning, Bluffs."

READY FOR SPRING

I'm tired of winter and ready for spring. I'll be so happy when it comes, I think I'll sing. Grass will be growing. People in their yards will be mowing. People's faces will glow and glare, Because they know that spring is in the air.

Many houses are being painted, Because the old is already faded. Green grass is coming up fast. Soon brown grass will be in the past. Some people are pulling out weeds, But others will be planting seeds. Winter is almost in the past. Spring is coming up real fast. Mike VanHynning Jefferson School Fifth Grade

Rockets And Space—

Craters Of The Moon

By WALTER B. HENDRICKSON JR.

RANGER PHOTOS

The pictures taken by Rangers VII and VIII show that the surface of the moon is covered by billions of tiny craters. When our astronauts set their spaceship down on the moon they will have to be very careful to avoid landing on the edge of one and toppling in. Fortunately, the Apollo Lunar Excursion Module is designed to move sideways up to 100 feet to pick a good landing place.

Even before the Ranger probes snapped their closeup pictures of the moon more than 200,000 craters had been seen on the earth facing side of the moon by earth-based telescopes. The Russians named ten of the craters on the sides of the moon hidden from earth after it was photographed by their moon probe, Lunik III. Since these pictures were rather fuzzy there must be many smaller craters which the Russians did not see.

Different From Earth

The craters on the moon are called that, because they look a lot like the craters on earth. However, there are many important differences. For one thing, most of the craters on the moon that can be seen from earth are much larger than the largest ones on earth. For example, the crater Guericke, shown in the photo above is 36 miles wide — and it is only an average-sized crater! The largest crater on the moon is Bailly is 183 miles wide and 14,000 feet deep; it even has a smaller crater, Hare, in its northeast corner.

Terraced Walls

Another difference between the craters on the moon and those on earth is that most of the moon's large ones have terraced walls. This could be because there is no wind or water erosion (wearing away) on the moon to smooth the crater walls.

One thing that can't be explained by the lack of weather on the moon is that many craters, like Eratosthenes (the fifth largest crater), have mountains right in the center. Obviously, the center mountain was formed after the crater.

Most of the craters are rather shallow, compared to the few we have on earth. Some even have floors above the level of the surrounding landscape. The largest of these is Vargentin, a plateau near Bailly.

Like Mountain Chains Some of the craters form long chains as mountains do. The most noticeable of these is the one that runs down the middle of the southern half of the moon. It includes six large craters and several small ones. This crater chain can be seen even with a small telescope.

Many of the moon's craters have long rays reaching out from them like a sunburst. The most important of these is Tycho in the rough country in the southeast part. Many of the rays from this 54-mile-wide crater extend clear across the moon's surface in every direction and out of sight to the other side.

The last pictures taken by

Ranger VII were of one of these craters there were two large rays. The pictures showed many boulders. This clearly proved small craters caused by debris that, as scientists had long suspected, the rays were caused by created Tycho. In one of the debris.

Tree Planting Campaign

By Mary Pence Claywell

'Twill be so nice, when we are gone, To leave a TREE in memory there,

With giant arms, to spread a SHADE . . . around the City's "heart"

Where oldsters may in summer time . . . doze, dream, and rest in comfort, sweet, And workers pause, in noon-time hours, to catch their breath, and rest their feet:

Where birds may flit among the boughs, away from every thing that grieves, No fear of long departed souls that murmur . . . softly . . . in the leaves:

And children, lying in the grass . . . when shopping mothers grow too tired, May gaze up at God's Open Sky . . . and by its Glory . . . be inspired:

And too, along the City streets at homes, where dead stumps stare today, Today's young trees . . . will be great giants, providing shade where children play:

And some day, in the years to come . . . someone may say, with dewy eyes, As gazing on a sturdy oak, or linden tree, beneath the skies, Or yet, maple, strong and fit "My own dear parents . . . planted it!"

FUN'S COMING

Here comes spring Just listen to the birds sing. Now we can jump rope. Winter is over, I hope. School will soon be out. So we can play and shout. We can ride our bikes, And go on many hikes, We will play

All the long day, While the birds are mating, We can go roller skating, There go the girls and boys With all their toys. They can have ice cream While they day-dream. Clothes on the line are blowing, While in the garden Mom's hoeing.

By Emma Mae Leonhard

The comical little Ruddy Duck is exclusively a North American species, widely scattered from our eastern to our western coasts.

The male is certain that he is handsome, and he certainly is as he glides smoothly over the water, his brown back glowing coppery in the sun, conspicuous white cheeks topped with a blackened cap, and a perky wrenlike tail cocked impishly or fliritingly toward his head. Almost a hundred colloquialisms have been given to this most peculiar duck, among which are the descriptive Wiretail, Stiff-tail, Stick-tail, Stub-tail, Spike-tail.

Ruddy can be unusually active. He is one of the most energetic ducks in the water, and possesses unequalled aquatic ability. He dives like a flash, and he has the power of submerging completely without any visible attempt at diving. His neat performance has earned him such names as Dapper, Dipper, Dicky, Dip-tail Diver, Little Soldier, Johnny Bull, Rubber Duck, Hickory Head, Bumblebee-buzzer, and Paddywack.

Asleep On Mauvaisterre But the most active creature — man, beast, or bird — can grow weary and so had the little Ruddy on Lake Mauvaisterre. So near to Vandalia Road was Butterball (a general colloquial name) floating that morning of March 13 that at first we feared that we might awaken him. Undisturbed, we enjoyed a close-up study of him, relaxed on the only small triangle of water free from ice. His head was snuggled so deeply under one wing that we couldn't see his bright blue bill; his brown body glowed in the March sun's rays; and his spike-like tail, somewhat ragged this morning, was sticking up in the Ruddy-Duck fashion. There was no movement except the swinging of the little duck's relaxed body on the swaying water, and the fanning of the disheveled pointed tail by the March breeze.

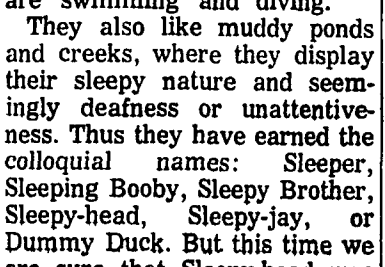

Why So Weary? Why was Ruddy so weary and "dead to the world?" We guessed that he had flown in during the night from a rough passage that had ruffled his tail and, exhausted from his long journey, was enjoying that little bit of refuge upon Lake Mauvaisterre.

However, Ruddies often take naps even if they aren't in the midst of migration. It is not unusual to see two or three fast asleep among other ducks that are swimming and diving. They also like muddy ponds and creeks, where they display their sleepy nature and seemingly deafness or unattentiveness. Thus they have earned the colloquial names: Sleeper, Sleeping Booby, Sleepy Brother, Sleepy-head, Sleepy-jay, or Dummy Duck. But this time we are sure that Sleepy-head was really weary.

TIME TO CHEER Spring is here It's time to cheer. The birds sing their song After the winter so long. The flowers start to bloom, It's a sight to end all gloom. On a warm and sunny day, All the boys and girls come out to play.

Spring is here, The best time of the year. Eddie Brown Jefferson School Fifth Grade

What I Can Do For My Country

By Carol Goodrich

Editor's Note: The following essay is one of the award winners in the recent contest among South Jacksonville pupils. Other winners appeared on this page on previous Sundays.

Keep America Beautiful Citizens of the United States of America should do as much for their country as they can. I know that there are many things I can do.

I can conserve natural resources and preserve national wildlife.

No Littering To keep my country beautiful I will help prevent careless littering. Helping to make good laws and enforcing laws is an important job that I can do.

Education Important Civil rights is another thing I can fight for. I can elect a good president who will help educate people and see that everyone is educated.

Religion holds our country together. I will help keep religion strong in our country. If I do all these things I know I will be helping my country.

BIRDS WILL FLY

Pleasant, pleasant spring is here. Spring is pleasant to every child so dear!

The snow is melting away. So the children go and play. Running and jumping with delight, In the morning sunlight.

Soon the robins will be here. Making music far and near. Building nests here, there and everywhere.

The birds are twisting and turning, Swooping up and down in the sky so blue.

On the lawn they will be springing up, That is, the butterfly. The orchard trees will be in bloom.

And the violets will be smelling up our room. Merry voices will sing, In the pleasant time of spring.

The Loner

Uncle Sam is shown as a unicorn pedaling a unicycle around South Viet Nam in this political cartoon by David Irlam, grade 8, of Woodson. Appropriately called "The Loner," David's drawing seems to be questioning the lack of support from other freedom-loving nations.

David, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Irlam of Woodson, and his teacher is William DeFrates at Murrayville.

"The Loner" has been submitted, in a competition to the Visual Education Center at Madison, Wisconsin, which supplies news filmstrips to Murrayville School through the sponsorship of the Jacksonville Journal - Courier.

David's idea grew out of a current events discussion of the Viet Nam crisis in Mr. DeFrates's history class.

Glass-Eyed Cat

By John Rankin

Ted and his parents are awakened one morning as their neighbors, old Mr. Cully and Mrs. Dooly get into another quarrel. Ted's Mom wonders what they can be arguing about now that it is Spring and no autumn leaves blowing or snow to be cleared to a disputed boundary.

She is skeptical that there is such a thing when Ted reports that they were arguing about a glass-eyed cat. "Are you sure?" she asks Ted.

"Of course I'm sure, Mom," Ted persisted. "That's what started the big row in the first place. Mr. Cully says that glass-eyed cat is bad luck and he wants Mr. Dooly to get rid of him."

"Oh I see," Mom nodded with a faint smile. "The cat belongs to Mr. Dooly and he's determined to keep him despite Mr. Cully. Is that it?"

"Quite the contrary, my dear," Dad joined in. "It seems that neither will claim the cat — each declaring that the critter showed up at the other's place first — and therein lies the seat of the trouble."

Mom gave Dad a searching look. "It seems that a simple solution to the problem would be to remove the cat from the neighborhood, Arnold," she hinted. "Perhaps the animal shelter could find him a good home."

"Don't look at me, Mildred," Dad shrugged as he pushed back from the table. "The silly cat would likely find his way back here — and even if he didn't those two stubborn old coots would find something new to wrangle over."

"Yeah, like they did last summer when Mr. Dooly got mad at Mr. Cully for starting his power mower before sun-up and Mr. Cully claimed Mr. Dooly's chickens got in his garden," Ted added with a wide grin.

Another Row The next evening Dad and Mom were in the living room when Ted came barging in. "Hey, you missed out on the big row out in the alley just now," he began excitedly. "Mr. Cully said that glass-eyed cat kept him awake with its crazy howling — and Mr. Dooly said he'd rather hear a cat howl than listen to a mule bray."

Dad's eyes lit up with amusement. "That was a hot one," he laughed. "Did the old fellows stop with that?"

"Oh no, Dad," Ted went on. "Mr. Cully and Mr. Dooly said Mr. Cully should climb a tree himself since he was sure his ancestors had lived in one. Then some lady across the street said something about calling the police and they both beat it out of there in a hurry."

CHANGEABLE MONTH

This is the month of the year When many changes come, it is clear.

One day it might snow. Don't you know. One day it might rain. I hope I don't slip and cause pain.

One day it might sleet. And come down like a sheet. One day it might be sunny. So maybe I can go hunting. This is the way March might be.

BLOSSOMTIME

All the flowers are coming up. Even the little buttercup. Some of the trees are turning green,

And all the children are mean. All the girls are jumping rope. All the boys are running over the slope.

Yet some of the trees are still bare, But we shouldn't care Because spring is on the way.

Jacksonville Girl

Now A 'High-Fashion' Model

Take a look at the girl pictured at right, the model with a soigne look showing a mink stole to its very best advantage.

Remember her? She was tall, gangly, brown haired and freckled when she went to Jacksonville high school and wore horn-rimmed glasses.

Her name was Mary Elizabeth Hyatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Hyatt, 810 South West street.

Now she's Miss Beth Hyatt, 22, one of the top high-fashion models in Chicago, keeping busy and earning $35 an hour. Wearing fine toggery she poses for photographs which appear in advertisements in Vogue and Harper's Bazaar and the numerous less-known high fashion trade periodicals. Sometimes she's a blonde, sometimes a brunette, sometimes she wears her own hair.

No, Two All! She doesn't look the same in any two photographs, since one of the talents of a high-fashion model, who works with the cameraman and advertising people to make a fine garment look even better than it truly is.

High-fashion models wouldn't win any of today's beauty contests. By our present standards they haven't enough bone and too much bone. But they aren't in any beauty contest; their business is to draw attention to the garment, or jewelry, or hat, or whatever the advertiser is trying to sell.

Miss Hyatt, green-eyed, stands 5 feet, 8 inches tall, weighs 108 pounds and her measurements are 34, 22, 34.

Now At The Top The Chicago SUN-TIMES called her one of Chicago's top models in a recent full-length, well illustrated article written by Miss Barbara Varro of the paper's "Feminine Angle" staff.

After graduation from J.H.S. Miss Hyatt worked for the Grant store on the east side of the square for a while before going to Chicago. There she got a job in a loop department store and enrolled at Patricia Stevens school for models, which offers something similar to basic training for the profession.

After a year there Miss Hyatt began looking for jobs, visiting commercial photographers and asking them to make test shots. She also signed with several agencies.

Miss Varro says Beth worked hard and began to catch on. Now she is exclusively registered with the A-Plus agency and commands the city's highest pay scale—$35 an hour.

Behind The Lens The cameraman is the model's best friend, Beth told Miss Varro. One of her special favorites in Vic Skrebnicki, recognized as one of Chicago's outstanding commercial photographers.

"I owe so much to Vic," Beth said. "When I finally persuaded him to do some test shots, he told me to come in the next day without any make-up. I did, and he sat me in front of a mirror and made me up, explaining what he was doing as he went along. When he was through he said, 'Now you'd better be good,' and he set up the camera.

"I was petrified. But he was very patient. He showed me how to perfect my posing. If you throw a nip out and twist one way you get a good line in a dress. If you twist another way it just hangs shapeless. It's great to see what happens to clothes when you experiment with poses.

"Now I know how important

Engaged

Sharon Diane Gaffney

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Gaffney, Medora route one, announce the engagement of their only daughter, Sharon Diane, to Oliver Lee Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leanele Young of Kane, Illinois. No definite date has been set for the wedding.

Miss Gaffney is a senior at Southwestern High School where her fiancé graduated in 1964. He is employed by the Valstad Quarry at Kane.

photographers are. You just don't stand there when you can see they don't like a certain pose. You have to keep changing poses and expressions until they like it."

Coiffures And Color A model is expected to be able to change her hairstyle frequently and quickly, wrote Miss Varro.

"So Beth has two wigs, one blonde and one black, and two wigs in her own color which she can blend into her own hair to add height or fullness."

What's wrong with the modeling business? "Being a model can be a drag on her social life. She is expected to show up at the studio in the morning looking bright and chipper without bags under the eyes."

Now that she's made the top in Chicago, how about trying it in New York?

"I realize the highest pay scale here is the starting one in New York, and there is more opportunity to do fashion work there," Beth said. "But I would rather stay put as of now."

Betrothed

Barbara Brown

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Barbara Brown of Jacksonville to Paul Alred of Roodhouse. No date has been set for the wedding.

Miss Brown is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orin Campbell of Barry and is a student nurse at Passavant Hospital School of Nursing.

Mr. Alred is the son of Mrs. Ida Alred of Roodhouse and is employed at the DeWitt Oldsmobile Agency in Jacksonville.

Toby Anderson, Charles E. Yelm Wed In Greene

WHITE HALL—Miss Toby Jean Anderson of White Hall and Charles E. Yelm of Winchester were united in marriage Sunday afternoon, March 28, twenty-first at the local First Baptist church. The Reverend Ollie Phillips of Petersburg, performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Dorothy Anderson of this city and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Yelm of Winchester.

Gladiali and greenery banked the altar of the church. Mrs. Kenneth Love was soloist and Miss Bonnie Sparks of Wood River was at the organ.

Mrs. Albert Short, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Miss Charlene Williams was bridesmaid and Cammy Yelm, daughter of the groom, was flower girl.

Gary Coultas and Ronald Coultas, Winchester, were best man and groomsmen. Dennis Clark, cousin of the bride, was ringbearer. Guests were seated by Albert Short and Steve Howell, the latter of Bluffs.

Given in marriage by her grandfather, Roy Anderson, the bride wore a gown of white chiffon over taffeta with pearl embellishment. Her shoulder length veil of illusion fell from a small satin rose headpiece and she carried a cascade of spider mums centered with yellow rosebuds.

The bride's attendants wore conventional length gowns of avocado green with matching hats. Their flowers were cascades of yellow carnations.

The mother of the bride wore turquoise with matching accessories. Her flowers were white carnations. The groom's mother was in navy with blue accessories. Her flowers were yellow carnations.

A reception was held at the church following the ceremony. Assisting were Miss Chris Capps, Winchester, niece of the groom, Linda James, White Hall, cousin of the bride, Linda Savage, Springfield, Rosemary Dawson, White Hall and Bonnie Sparks, Wood River.

Upon return from a wedding trip the couple took up residence in Winchester where the groom is employed by the Marshall Chevrolet agency.

The bride graduated from White Hall High School in 1961, attended Western Illinois University at Macomb and is completing her junior year at Southern Illinois University, where she is majoring in elementary education. The

The Civil War -- 100 Years Ago

LEUTENANT-GENERAL GRANT'S HEADQUARTERS AT CITY POINT, VIRGINIA — (SKETCHED BY A. R. WAUD.) — HARPER'S WEEKLY.

FROM OUR SPECIAL WAR CORRESPONDENT. City Point, Va. — March 28, 1865. "All seems well with us." — A. Lincoln. — HARPER'S WEEKLY

From Memoirs of Gen. W. T. Sherman:

My army was hard up for food and clothing, which could only reach us from the coast, and my chief attention was given to the reconstruction of the two railroads which meet at Goldsboro, from Newbern and Wilmington, so as to reclothe the men, and get provisions enough with which to continue our march to Burkesville, Virginia, where we would come into communication with General Grant's army.

(Sherman decides to go to City Point, Va., to confer with Grant.)

I arrived the afternoon of March 27 and I found General Grant and staff occupying a neat set of log huts, on a bluff overlooking the James river. The General's family was with him. We had quite a long and friendly talk, when he remarked that the President, Mr. Lincoln, was near by in a steamer lying at the dock, and he proposed that we should call at once. We did so, and found Mr. Lincoln on board the River Queen. We had met in the early part of the war, and he recognized me, and received me with a warmth of manner and expression which was most grateful. We then sat some time in the after-cabin and Mr. Lincoln made many inquiries about the events which attended the march from Savannah to Goldsboro, and seemed to enjoy the humorous stories about "our bummers," of which he had heard so much. When in lively conversation, his face brightened wonderfully; but if the conversation flagged, his face assumed a sad and sorrowful expression.

(Grant and Sherman were sure there would be one more bloody battle, particularly if Lee and Johnston could get their two armies together and attack either Grant or Sherman separately. Grant was not too excited, because Sheridan had gotten his cavalry square on Lee's left flank and could handle him until the infantry could be brought up.)

Mr. Lincoln repeatedly inquired as to General Schofield's ability, in my absence, and seemed anxious that I should return to North Carolina, and more than once exclaimed: "Must more blood be shed? Cannot this last bloody battle be avoided?" We explained that we had to presume that General Lee was a real general; that he must see that Johnston alone was no barrier to my progress; and that, if my army of 80,000 veterans should reach Burkesville, he was lost in Richmond, and that we were forced to believe he would not await that inevitable conclusion, but make one more desperate effort.

(The next day, March 28, 1865, Grant and Sherman returned to the ship for another conference with the President. It was determined that Grant should continue pressure on Lee and Sherman would move his reequipped army north in two weeks to join Grant. After a pause Lincoln began discussing what should be done with the enormous problems that would follow the close of the conflict.

Though I cannot attempt to recall the words spoken by any one of the persons on that occasion, I know we talked generally about what was to be done when Lee's and Johnston's armies were beaten and dispersed.

On this point Mr. Lincoln was very full. He said that he had long thought of it, that he hoped this end could be reached without more bloodshed, but in any event he wanted us to get the deluded men of the rebel armies disarmed and back to their homes; that he contemplated no revenge; no harsh measures, but quite the contrary, and that their suffering and hardships during the war would make them the more submissive to law. I cannot say that Mr. Lincoln, or anybody else, used this language; but I know I left his presence with the conviction that he had in his mind, or that his Cabinet had, some plan of settlement ready for application the moment Lee and Johnston were defeated.

(Perhaps Lincoln had a definite plan for the reunion of the states, but so did the Radicals and the Carpetbaggers. And when Booth killed Lincoln the latter were quick to hop into the saddle.)

DOMESTIC

Several of the female rebels of Missouri who were sentenced to be banished to the South during the war by Gen. Dodge, have compromised by marrying Union soldiers, in some cases their temporary guards, and now their life guards.

Lyman Sibley has just been chosen clerk of the town of Barre, Mass., for the 47th time. The vote was unanimous.

The New York City house carpenters have had a meeting and resolved to demand $3.50 per day wages.

The Chicago TRIBUNE advertises for 500 tons of corn husks, of which to manufacture paper for its own use.

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher has been induced by his congregation to abandon his lecturing tours, in consequence of which they paid off a mortgage on his house for $7,500, and increased his salary to $19,500.

In this city on the 14th inst., died Henry Steinway, aged 34, one of the most eminent pianoforte manufacturers in the world, and a member of the well known firm of Steinway & Sons.

The rebel Congress, on the 18th inst., among its very last acts, passed the bill empowering Jeff. Davis to seize the gold in the banks for the purchase of supplies. This uses up every thing in the State of Virginia, and will put into Davis's hands about two millions of gold, equivalent to one hundred and fifty millions of rebel currency.

Jefferson Davis is evidently no longer the chief personage in the rebellion. Doubtless at a word from General Lee, Davis would fall from power unopposed, and Lee be saluted absolute Dictator with universal consent and enthusiasm.

The 101st Reaches Goldsboro

The Morgan county boys in the 101st Illinois Infantry were resting in Goldsboro, N. C. a hundred years ago today.

They didn't know it, but they had faced their last hostile bullet, had deployed over their last battleground. As they reflected on their march through the Carolinas they couldn't keep from feeling pride. They knew they had done well, all the way.

Let's extract from the "Memoirs of Gen. W. T. Sherman:"

During the 23d and 24th the whole army was assembled at Goldsboro, and there we all rested, while I directed my special attention to replenishing the army for the next and last stage of the campaign. Col. W. W. Wright had been so indefatigable, that the Newbern Railroad was done, and a locomotive arrived in Goldsboro on the 25th of March.

Thus was concluded one of the longest and most important marches ever made by an organized army in a civilized country. The distance from Savannah to Goldsboro is four hundred and twenty-five miles, and the route traversed embraced five large navigable rivers, viz., the Edisto, Broad, Catawba, Pedee, and Cape Fear, at either of which a comparatively small force, well handled, should have made the passage most difficult, if not impossible.

The country generally was in a state of nature, with innumerable swamps, with simply mud roads, nearly every mile of which had to be corduroyed. In our route we had captured Columbia, Cheraw, and Fayetteville, important cities and depots of supplies, had compelled the evacuation of Charleston City and Harbor, had utterly broken up all the railroads of South Carolina, and had consumed a vast amount of food and forage, essential to the enemy for the support of his own armies.

We had in mid-winter accomplished the whole journey of four hundred and twenty-five miles in fifty days, averaging ten miles per day, allowing ten lay-days, and had reached Goldsboro with the army in superb order, and the trains almost as fresh as when we had started from Atlanta.

FOREIGN

The winter in Europe has been very severe. In Scotland there had been no weather so cold for 30 years.

Portugal is trying to restore friendly relations between England and Brazil.

The rebel privateer Shenandoah has reached Melbourne, Australia. She is reported as having burned 11 ships during her voyage from the Cape of Good Hope.

The Imperial Government in Mexico is hostile to the United States Government, it having imprisoned a man, named Valders, for speaking favorably of the Northern cause and predicting the speedy fall of the rebellion. It has also ordered the U.S. Consul at Matamoros to strike his flag and return to Washington.

The Indian Telegraph is in working order between Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay, and London. Messages are now being constantly received between England and her Indian possessions in the course of a day or 36 hours. The great delay is on the land. The submarine cable is working splendidly.

The Italian government preserves the entire town of Portofino as a national monument. Strict controls are imposed to retain the charm of the former fishing village on the Italian Riviera. Except for a three-hour period of the morning, cars are barred from its winding streets. Not even a shutter can be repainted until the resident submits color samples to ensure duplication.

From A 1928 Notebook

In the summer of 1928 the writer interviewed over 40 Civil War veterans living in Morgan county. Here are some items from the notebook:

DAVIS, Joseph 59th Colored Infantry Jacksonville

Sold on the auction block when a boy; sells himself into the army. Lives at 137 Richards street, with his stepdaughter, Mrs. Samuel Duvall.

Age unknown, "Spec I'm about 85," born in Marshall county, Tenn.

"When I was just a little fellow, too young to work, my sister, my brother and myself were taken from our mother and sold on the auction block in Lewisburg, the county seat. I don't know what I fetched, but I think it was $100. About 12 years ago I saw my sister, but that is the only relative I have ever seen or heard of."

When the Union forces arrived in Tennessee Davis began cooking for a Capt. Carpenter. "When it came time for him to go on furlough he took me to Cairo. I drifted around the state some and one day I was in Jacksonville. A white man came out of the recruiting office. He came out a-cussin' because his number had come up and he offered $1,000 in gold to any man who would take his place. I took the money.

"The next day I was sent to Camp Butler. Stayed there a week to form a colored company. Then went to Cairo where the 59th was formed. I didn't do anything in the army except stand guard and cook quite a lot. I liked Jacksonville the best of all places I saw, so I came back here."

A laborer and farm hand most of life, caretaker at Woman's College for several years.

GALLOWAY, James 10th Illinois Cavalry Jacksonville.

Born in Mercer, Ky., in 1844. Moved to Woodson in 1860. Before coming to Morgan county he hunted and fished, "never worked a day in my life and never spent an hour in a school house."

In Woodson worked on farms and went to school during the winter months. Enlisted March, 1864. "I was in no hurry to enlist, for I had two brothers in Morgan's cavalry and I didn't like the idea of brother fighting brother. But when they started the draft I enlisted."

"As I look back at those days I don't see how any of us came out alive. I didn't get a single scratch. I was sick once, near Little Rock, and they put me on the bare ground, expecting me to die. I had a fever. One day I got up and walked out of the hospital, lay out in the woods for a week or so and got well."

"The cavalry had one advantage. We didn't have to live on the rations doled out to us. Which, incidentally, was salt pork, hard-tack and adulterated coffee. But we fared pretty well. Most every day we'd stray across some of those little bantam-like chickens then popular in the south. And whenever we found a hog, well, we just had a feast. We didn't waste our ammunition; chickens were chased down and bowled over with a club; hogs were left to a Negro who could throw a rock hard enough and straight enough to brain any razzorback that ever roamed the foothills."

After war regiment sent to Texas to quell Indian uprisings. Rode from San Antonio to Springfield, where he was mustered out Jan. 6, 1866.

DUCKETT, Albert 11th Missouri Infantry Jacksonville.

Born in Ohio in 1846. Family moved to Bethel. Enlisted in July, 1862, in 68th Infantry, a three-months' regiment, Co. A, all from Morgan county, Capt. John W. King of Jacksonville.

"We didn't do much, no fighting of any kind. In fact, about all we did was to go to Camp Taylor, Va., south of Washington, D.C., and get the measles. We were back home in four months and some of us went to St. Louis and enlisted in the 11th.

Saw no combat. Assigned a cotton scout. In civilian dress, roamed through Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas looking for cotton. Would send word back where it was hid; if possible Union detachment would seize it and sent it north. Worth $200 or more a bale.

Lived by gambling. "Very few times during the three years was I present when the company enjoyed a pay day. We were then paid the gigantic sum of $14 a month. When I was mustered out I received more money from the St. Louis paymaster than the colonel, major and captain put together. I came back to Bethel all duded-up in a $100 suit of clothes I bought in St. Louis."

From the Jacksonville Sentinel:

ANOTHER INAUGURATION — Following close upon the second inauguration of Mr. Lincoln has come the inauguration of our splendid new Jail edifice, the pride of our city and county for its ornate and tasty outward appearance, and the terror of rogues, great and small, for its strong and secure iron cells.

The ceremony pertaining to the inauguration of this new edifice came off on Monday. The procession wended its way through the square, towards the jail, at an early hour. It was headed by two gentlemen acting as marshals, a daring robbery on the cars last winter. They were marched side by side, affectionately united with links of iron, flanked on one side by our energetic and popular Sheriff, and on the other by our worthy and faithful jailer, while the rear was covered by one of our most vigilant and active constables.

The procession was filled out by a string of admiring youth, evidently eager to witness the inaugurating ceremony of a "lock up" in the new edifice.

THE DRAFT — The draft in this congressional district commenced on last Tuesday, and will be continued until all the sub-districts in arrears are drafted. Notwithstanding all the efforts that have been made, this precinct remains subject of draft for balance of men due. In the meantime substitute brokers are on the alert to serve any lucky drawer of a uniform and musket, who may wish to transfer his luck to a substitute.

From the Jacksonville Journal: CAIRO MONDAY LEADER — Such is the title of a new weekly paper recently started in the city of Cairo, the first number of which is on our desk. The LEADER is undoubtedly one of the nearest newspapers we have seen for many a long day; we wish the young editors and proprietors any amount of success. The editor thereof — that is to say, THE EDITOR, Ed. S. Trover, is well known in this "neck of the woods," as a "rite smartie," enterprising, go-ahead young fellow — one who, in his peculiar line, cannot be excelled anywhere. Ed is a gay child, a clever gent, a ready writer, and, in fact, a hunkey boy all over.

All the papers of this area had high praise for Editor Trover, but his paper failed to prosper. He held the highly interesting and important post of "river editor" for the Cincinnati COMMERCIAL when he died of consumption in 1867.

THE COURT — The March term of the Morgan County Circuit Court commenced on Monday last, Judge D. M. Woodson on the Bench and Wm. Brown, Esq., State's Attorney. We notice quite a full attendance of the members of the bar, giving a lively interest to the professional side of the Court Room. The venerable D. A. Smith and his tenacious competitor for more than a quarter of a century, Gen. Murray McConnell, locked horns on the second day of court.

Preparations for building this season are going on extensively, but the high and very uncertain price of lumber has prevented our merchants in that commodity laying in a supply as yet.

We are again compelled to ask the indulgence of our readers for not furnishing them with more interesting reading matter, but we are very much crowded, and are likely to be for a few weeks, with job work, which prevents us bestowing that labor on the paper we would wish.

HUMORS of the day

The New York ladies are dying at a fearful rate. Red hair is the object.

Geese, dull as they are, imitate men. Notice, that if one of the flock drinks, the rest follow.

A woman's grief is very short. If she loses her husband she sines only for a second.

Even a pig on the spit has the consolation of thinking that things may take a turn.

WHAT DID HE DO THE FIRST YEAR — In one of the courts in Connecticut, recently, a woman was testifying on behalf of her son, and swore that he had worked on a farm ever since he was born. The lawyer who cross-examined her said, "You assert that your son has worked on a farm ever since he was born?" "I do." "What did he do the first year?" "He milked," she replied. The whole court laughed heartily, and the witness was questioned no further.

THE STORY: Clay Belden has doubts as to the authenticity of Dr. Tancred's emerald, but his sister, the doctor's wife, does not. Dr. Tancred was hurt in a car accident. After the wreck a golf club used to murder Howard Gould was found in his car.

XII
Instead of going into their bedroom Cynthia went into the den. There was a couch in there, and comfortable chairs, and her desk. She had turned half of it into an office for herself. When Clay had first met her, in the course of his work, she was a feature writer on a newspaper. Following their marriage she had tried her hand at fiction. She worked easily but sporadically, turning out four or five short stories in a year. and she sold them all. Clay never stopped marveling at her, but she treated her success lightly, cheerfully added her earnings to their joint savings account and forgot about them until income-tax time forcibly reminded her.

The phone was ringing. He answered it and heard a familiar, affectedly lilting voice.

"It's Betty, Clay dear. I was wondering how our Cyn is feeling today."

"Why, fine. Why shouldn't she? Just fine."

"I mean, is her cold better?"

"I was so disappointed she couldn't join us all last night. She hasn't come down with something, Clay dear, has she?"

He slid over it. "She's tired, that's all. Right now she's having a nap. Nice of you to call, Betty. I'll tell her."

"Do that. By-by."

He stood frowning at the phone until he became aware that Cynthia had returned to the living room; then he turned a puzzled look on her. How was it she had answered just after he arrived last night, when he'd asked her if she had enjoyed her evening at Betty's? No; it hadn't gone that way; he hadn't asked. He had mentioned that he had phoned her twice along his way back home without getting an answer, and she had said, "Told you I'd be spending the evening at Betty's."

Cynthia had an unlighted cigarette in one hand. Her tote bag was sitting on the table and she was fishing into it.

"Who called just now, darling?"

"Betty. You didn't tell me you'd begged off with a cold."

"Oh, that was just an excuse. I didn't feel up to a whole evening of bridge and chatter. I read magazines for a while, then took myself off to my lonely bed."

"But you did tell me you'd spent the evening at Betty's."

"Did I? But Clay darling, I couldn't have. Anyway, if I did, I'd taken two sleeping pills and I was too doped up to make sense."

When Clay arrived at his office the next day he sensed an odd restraint in the air. Ethel Cotton was at her desk, her face too placid. He noticed that his door, usually left open, was closed.

"You have a caller," Ethel told him. "She came in a few minutes after I opened up. I thought I'd better ask her to wait in your private office."

get a chance to use it for several years but when the chance does arrive you will have a winner provided your partner has not forgotten about it in the meanwhile. Of course, if you are a duplicate player you will write it on your convention card every time you play and it will be there for both your partner and your opponents to see.

With this hand the club lead automatically beats the no-trump game. With any other lead the declarer will lead a diamond from dummy at some time or other and wind up making his contract.

TOASTMASTERS GIVE PROGRAM FOR ROODHOUSE ROTARY

ROODHOUSE — Members of the Jacksonville Toastmasters Club visited the Roodhouse Rotary Club, Wednesday evening, and presented a program including talks and evaluations.

Participating were Clarence Dix, Dick Smith, John James, Robert Musser, Mel Akers, John Pruett, Darrell Jokisch, William Kooi, David Kinder, Pete Humboldt, Tom Newingham, local Rotarian, was program chairman for the evening.

Visiting Rotarians, some of whom are also members of the Toastmasters Club, were Jim Bunting, Clarence Dix, Darrell Jokisch, Robert Musser, Joe Dixon, Rev. Russell Coulter, Jacksonville.

Student guests were Steve Adams and K. E. Edwards. The dinner was served by the Pythian Sisters Lodge.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcus McCol-

Under the circumstances. It's Mrs. Howard Gould." Mrs. Gould found Myra seated in his visitor's chair, igniting a fresh cigarette from a half-inch stub. Her tailored black dress subtracted pounds from her plump figure. She looked outwardly calm but Clay sensed that she was holding herself under tight self-control. Neither of them offered a good-morning. Clay sat in his chair and waited while they estimated each other across his desk.

"One thing I came for, Clay, is to say how sorry I am about the way I behaved yesterday."

"Myra, there's no need—"

"Yes, there is need to apologize, not only for me but for Howie, too. He didn't know how lucky he was when you took him in as a partner especially since the business has done so well. He was ungrateful. That was a lowdown trick he pulled on you, stealing from the firm, and you were perfectly right to kick him out."

"Let's forget that too, Myra."

"I can't. I'm still living with it. I will be for a long while to come. I mean, after Howie was all through here, he began throwing money around—the money you paid him back. A sensible man in a bad spot like that would pull in his belt, but not Howie."

This wasn't news to Clay. He said nothing and let her go on working her way around to her point.

"On top of all that—I had some money of my own. He made me lend it to him, all of it, and he started blowing that too."

"You couldn't control him. No one could."

"I tried, but it just turned him more rebellious."

Take a look at the East hand only. South opens one no-trump and North jumps to three no-trump. All you can do is sit quietly and hope against hope that your partner will open a club. If only you had some way to tell your partner to make that lead.

Dr. John Fisher of Dallas noticed that he never had a hand with which he wanted to double a three no-trump contract reached on direct no-trump bidding unless he happened to be on lead. Therefore he reasoned that he would lose nothing if he reserved that double as a request to his partner to open a club. So he invented the Fisher double which is a specific convention.

It is used when your partner is going to be on lead against a three no-trump contract that has been reached without the bidding of any suit and simply says, "Partner, lead a club."

This convention really falls into the gadget class. You might adopt it today and not

TWO HOSPITALIZED FROM CRASH EAST OF CITY FRIDAY

Two persons were hospitalized with injuries sustained in a car-truck accident about 3:30 p.m. Friday seven miles east of Jacksonville on Ill. 104.

Admitted to Holy Cross hospital were Patricia L. Rynders, 19, of Scottville driver of a truck, and driver of a car, Wayne E. Gray, 33, of route two, Waverly. Both were driving alone.

Gray sustained a fractured arm, and severe facial lacerations and was in fair condition, while Miss Rynders was reported in shock.

State police noted that the Rynders truck which was southbound, went out of control on Rees curve and slid sideways into the path of the northbound car driven by Gray.

Both vehicles were heavily damaged and removed from the scene by wrecker.

Our political system is a means of electing local governmental officials, but in my opinion, our government should not be used by elected officials as a tool to remain in office and further their own PERSONAL political gain.

I call them "the great credit takers." They take credit for all good, past, present and future, regardless whether they had anything to do with it or not. And deny all ERRORS and BLUNDERS regardless of how COSTLY TO THE TAXPAYERS.

When they are being paid by the taxpayers, certainly their first obligation is to the taxpayers.

Over 250,000 people in 130 countries bought an Opel Kadett last year.

Do they know something you don't?

Did you know the Kadett is made in Germany by General Motors?

Did you know it has bucket seats and a 4 speed floor shift and enough other standard equipment to make a lot of other cars look positively stripped down?

Did you know the sedan and sports coupe have trunks the size of real, honest-to-goodness trunks? And that the wagon has 50 cubic feet of cargo space?

Did you know there are Buick/Opel dealers all across the country that you can count on for parts and service?

Did you know you can buy a brand-new Kadett for the price of a good used car?

Well, now you know. Those 250,000 people. They're still one up on you, though. They've actually driven a Kadett. Are you going to let them get away with that?

SEEING IS BELIEVING—John McCune, 11, one of 750 blind students treated to the fun of the circus in Chicago, gets a firsthand account of what's going on as he hugs a chimp brought into the audience. Special headsets carried the sounds of the circus to John, but "seeing" the chimp made the day complete.

AREA RADIO CLUB TO PARTICIPATE IN HOME SHOW

Approximately 40 members attended the March 18 meeting of the Jacksonville Area Citizen's Band Radio club at the City Hall. Secretarial duties were assumed by Dave Knight in the absence of Al Gourley.

Arnold Anderson, president, presided and final arrangements were made for member participation in the Jaycee Home Show in April. Committees for the CB Jamboree on June 6 will be announced soon and members are urged to help make the event a successful club effort.

Charles Witte of Concord and Carter Morrison of Springfield were admitted to the club. Two members were reported sick. Al Gourley is still hospitalized at Passavant hospital and Bill Yording is a patient at Holy Cross hospital.

The next meeting will be held on April 15, at 7:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers.

AMVETS AUXILIARY MEET AT POST HOME

The Amvets Auxiliary Post No. 100 met March 23 at the Post home with President Millie Poole presiding. Sgt-at-arms Lucy Stillwell led the pledge to the flag and preamble, and Chaplain Rosemary Boes offered the opening prayer.

Bernadine Lair won the door prize, Esta Lee Beadles, the attendance prize. Lee Lambert was a guest. Sandra Wease and Louise Scott were accepted as new members.

The division meeting will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday, March 28 in Lincoln. Election of officers will be held May 10, installation date will be announced later.

Help is needed to set up tables April 10 and servers are needed April 11 for the Bartender's dinner to be held at the Post home April 11.

Members were asked to write their senators and congressmen urging them to keep VA hospitals open.

Amvets joined Auxiliary members during the social hour. The next meeting will be April 13 at 8 p.m.

FRANKLIN TEACHER TO ATTEND ROLLA SUMMER INSTITUTE

Gelen Ray Henson, mathematics teacher at Franklin High school, has been selected to participate in the 1965 Summer Institute for Physics, Chemistry and Mathematics teachers at the University of Missouri at Rolla. The institute is sponsored by the National Science Foundation.

Dr. Harold Q. Fuller, chairman of the physics department, is director.

Mr. Henson will take courses in intermediate general physics and statistics for secondary school teachers during the summer. He will receive a stipend in addition to dependence and travel allowance for attending the institute.

WHITE HALL UNIT ENJOYS LUAU

WHITE HALL — A delicious luau was served to members of the White Hall Night Unit of the Greene County Homemakers Extension service at a meeting held March 11 at the home of Mrs. Charles Coats.

The lessons "Hawaiian Cookery" and "Customs of Hawaii" were given by Mrs. William Wald, Mrs. Jack Harp and Mrs. Eloise Tholen, home adviser, who assisted the hostess in preparing and serving the luau. A film strip "Foods of Hawaii" was shown.

Members and guests were greeted with leis by Kathy Martin and decorations were in keeping with the Hawaiian theme.

Guests were Mrs. Ellis Walkington, Mrs. Floyd Collins, Mrs. Ethel Ross and Nancy Collins. During the business meeting, a donation to the Heart Fund was approved. Mrs. Bentley received the door prize.

The April meeting will be held with Mrs. Leo Suttles. The name of the Sicilian dance, tarantella, is popularly ascribed to the tarantula, the big hairy spider whose bite was thought to induce melancholy and a dancing frenzy, the National Geographic says. Some authorities, however, say the dance originated in Taranto, on the Italian mainland.

WRIGHTS CLUB WINS GREENE 4-H WINDOW DISPLAY CONTEST

CARROLLTON—The Wrights Jolly Pals 4-H club, led by Carl J. Jolly, won the annual Greene County 4-H club window display contest this year.

The display was held from March 20 through March 27 and judging was done Monday. The Wrights display was in the window of the Wrights Town Hall.

Second place went to the Merry Maiden club of Carrollton with a display in the Western Auto Store window in Carrollton. The leaders are Mrs. Keith Muniz and Mrs. Paul Bushnell.

The Do It Yourself Club won third place. Mrs. M. C. Young and Mrs. E. Kah. are leaders.

The display was in the South Side Hardware Company window in Rockbridge.

Fourth place went to the Brushy Hustlers Club of Carrollton for their display in the Sullivan Men's Clothing store window in Carrollton. Leaders are Mr. and Mrs. George Goeddey and Gene Goeddey.

Fifth place went to the North Greene Lassies and their display was in the window of the building in White Hall formerly occupied by the Rexall Drug Store.

Clubs whose displays are rated in the B Group were Gold-Wood and the White Hall Willing Workers.

The judges were Mrs. Herschel Fritz, assistant youth adviser of Jersey County and Larry Camp, assistant farm adviser of Jersey County.

Yankees Snap Mets' String At Four 8-0

By The Associated Press
The New York Yankees snapped two exhibition baseball games Friday when right-handers Mel Stottlemyre and Pedro Ramos collaborated for a three-hit 8-0 victory over the New York Mets.

Stottlemyre, Ramos and a 13-hit attack led by Tom Tresh helped the Yankees end a four-game losing streak and stop the Mets' four-game winning skid. Tresh, playing center field for the American League champions, collected three singles. Mickey Mantle again played left field before retiring in the fourth inning. Stottlemyre gave up all three Met hits in the last two of his six-inning stint.

Pittsburgh right-hander Don Schwall pitched 8 2-3 innings in the Pirates' 3-2 decision over Milwaukee and southpaw Sandy Koufax worked eight innings for the Los Angeles Dodgers, losing to Detroit 3-2 on George Smith's three-run homer in the fourth.

Prep Wrestling Champ Has Legs Off Above Knees

By JIM TANKARD
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Dicky Bryant, the North Carolina high school wrestling champion in the 98-pound class, has one disadvantage — both his legs have been cut off above the knees.

Gene Abercrombie, Dicky's wrestling coach at West Mecklenburg High School, said the youngster's opponents have some problems, too.

"Dicky is stronger in the arms and shoulders than most 98-pounders," he said. "But he does, of course, lack the advantage of legs."

"He has to do all his movements with his hands, and he has trouble pinning people because of his lack of balance. But the guy who wrestles him has a disadvantage, too."

Dicky's opponents also find the number of holds they can use restricted, the coach said.

"Myers Park High School put a man on his knees in practice to get ready for Dicky. But they lost anyway."

Dicky normally walks very well on artificial legs, but he takes them off when he wrestles.

The 15-year-old boy became interested in sports after he lost his legs in a train accident when he was 10.

Soon Became Interested
"I never did become too athletic until after my accident," he said. "But then I couldn't just sit around home and do nothing."

For a while, the youngster said, he was very depressed. He gives his physician, Dr. Edward R. Hipp Sr. of Charlotte, credit for snapping him out of it.

Now the friendly youth jokes about his handicap.

Dicky showed interest in wrestling for West Mecklenburg last summer. Abercrombie checked the rules, and found no reason why he could not wrestle.

Abercrombie said Dicky received help from Dr. Sam Barnes, wrestling coach at the University of North Carolina.

"Barnes gave Dicky self-confidence," Abercrombie said.

Dicky won his state championship in Boone, N.C., Feb. 26-27. He won three of three matches, after winning three of three in regional competition and seven of eight in the regular season.

The youth likes all sports. In his spare time, he plays football, basketball, and baseball with his friends. He wears his artificial legs for these sports.

Globetrotters At Western Hall In Big Program

Skilled artisans of several professions will present their wares for the edification and delight of the assembled onlookers at Western Hall, West-ern Illinois University, Macomb, Illinois on Thursday, April 15, 1965 when the great Harlem Globetrotters of basketball headline a huge program starting at 8:00 p.m.

Not only are the basketball players who will be in action, including the New York Nationals facing the Globetrotters, among the finest in the sport, but so are the array of added entertainers Boss Man Abe Saperstein of the Trotters is bringing along.

This is the celebrated international edition of the Globetrotters, who take their montage of cage wizardry, unsurpassed showmanship and all-around brilliance to all parts of the globe, including a third complete swing around the world last year. The team's 39th edition certainly must be classed among the best of all time. It is a unit of outstanding cagers, height, razzle dazzle perfection and speed.

There is the ace fun ring-leader Bob "Showboat" Hall, 6-2, now in the 15th season with the team and J. C. Gipson, 6-8, a 13-year veteran. Rounding out the powerhouse are Bobby Milton, 6-1, 15th year; Grandy McCullum, 6-3 Western Illinois University; Hallie Bryant, 6-3, Indiana University; seven-foot Bill "The Orbit" Garner from the University of Portland (Ore.) Mel Davis, 6-5, third season; Dribbling Wizard Murphy Summons 6-3 and Doug Himes, 6-5. Only newcomer to make the squad is 6-9 Manny Oliver.

Before the game and between halves will come the great added show, led by sensational one-legged dancing star Peg-Leg Bates, and including the international table tennis champions, Richard Bergmann of England and Lee Dal Joon of South Korea, in competition; Chinese hand-balancing expert George Lee; Canada's clever Mike LeMay in acrobatic wizardry; trampoline ace Steve Parry; and La Marx, celebrated juggler and acrobat. Appearing also, the fantastic pitching marvel of baseball, Leroy "Satchel" Paige.

Tickets for the huge show are on sale at Kroger Store-Spillers, Super Mkt., Smith Pharmacy, Stites Pharmacy — Western Hall Ticket Office (Mail Orders) University Union and Scotts Pharmacy.

SCHWALL STRONG IN 3-2 BUCS WIN

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Don Schwall of the Pittsburgh Pirates came within one pitch of going nine innings Friday as the Pirates scored a 3-2 exhibition baseball victory over the Milwaukee Braves.

Schwall had a three-hitter going into the ninth, then weakened and needed help from Al McBean. Pinch hitter Lou Kimchick promptly ended the game by flying out on McBean's first pitch.

The Pirates scored their runs off rookie Arnie Umbach, the key blow being a double by Gene Alley. Phil Niekro, another rookie, shut them out for 4 2-3 innings after relieving Umbach.

Mack Jones' fourth triple of the spring led to the Braves' first run. Singles by Lee Maye, Dean Oliver and Denny Menke produced the others.

CUBS ROMP TO 3RD STRAIGHT WIN 13-3

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — The Chicago Cubs jumped on right-hander Aubrey Gatewood for five runs in the first inning, and then coasted to a 13-3 baseball victory over the Los Angeles Angels Friday.

It was the Cubs' biggest win of the year and their third in a row.

Four of the nine Chicagoans who batted in the first inning hit safely as George Altman stroked a two-run single, and Doug Clemens a two-run double. The fifth run scored on second baseman Winston Llenas' fumble of Vic Roznovsky's ground-er.

Ron Santo hit his first spring homer leading off the third. One out later Ernie Banks hit his second homer.

Ernie Broglio wrapped up his second spring appearance by starting and pitching the first three innings. The veteran right-hander, who underwent major surgery on his pitching arm last November, yielded four hits. He also walked two plus serving a home run to Dick Simpson behind Llenas' inning-opening double in the second.

Los Angeles A, 020 000 001-3 8 2 Chicago N, 502 000 42x-13 14 2 Gatewood, Kelso 4, R. Lee 6, and Roof, Egan 6; Broglio, Elston 4, Meischner 7, Fisher 8 and Roznovsky, Bright 4, Felske 7. W-Broglio. L-Gatewood.

Home runs — Los Angeles, Simpson; Chicago, Santo, Banks.

FRENCHMAN CUPS SKI FINALE

STRATTON MOUNTAIN, Vt. (AP) — France's flashy Adrian Duvillard, thriving on a fast, granular surface, put together a pair of near-perfect runs Friday to win the Stratton Cup in the $11,500 finale of the American professional ski racing season.

The veteran competitor from the Windham, N. Y., Club threaded the 90-gate slalom course in a combined time of 2:17.91.

Blum Can't Afford To Worry About Getting Injured Again

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK — (NEA)—Everywhere where Walter Blum goes these days racing people stare at him, the disbeliever unmistakably etched into their faces.

"Everyone is kind of surprised to see me back so soon," Blum said. "One paper had me dead, another had me dying and another said I would never ride again."

It was at Santa Anita in December, the 29th to be exact, when Blum, the nation's winningest jockey in 1963 and 1964, was aboard Country Squire in the eighth race.

Suddenly, Country Squire went down with a broken leg and Blum hurtled through the air, landing in the path of on-rushing Chief of Chiefs.

"I don't remember having time to get out of the way," Blum said. "All I remember is waking up in the hospital."

The hospital report said he had suffered a severe concussion, some broken vertebrae and two broken ribs.

The report also said it would be four to six months before Walter Blum rode again.

Well, they underestimated the recuperative powers of the competitive little gentleman.

"I was in the hospital two weeks," he said, "and on the ground three more weeks before I got on a horse. During this time I was doing calisthenics and special therapy work to strengthen my spinal column."

Blum's first race after the accident came at Santa Anita Feb. 25 when he rode Political Plum and finished second.

"When something like that happens to anyone and if he thinks about it," said Blum, "the next time out he won't be able to function well."

"In racing you just have to accept something like that as part of the sport."

"But I do realize I was very lucky."

So Walter Blum is back and everyone is happy to see him. But they still have trouble believing it.

That's because the sight of an onrushing 1,200-pound horse hitting a 114-pound jockey leaves a vivid and horrifying memory.

LONDON: Geoffrey Liddiard, 31, (c) gives a wide-open laugh as he holds his check for 316,521 pounds ($886,258) here Wednesday, after receiving his world record payoff for a 50-cent bet in a soccer pool. Co-workers Brian Holford (l), 21, and George Larchet, 39, congratulate the happy winner. Liddiard correctly forecast eight of last week's nine tied professional games on Littlewoods Pools.

Men With Pencils Change Clay Fast

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — "Let Cassius see a few guys with pencils in their hands and he changes completely," says Angelo Dundee, manager and trainer of the world heavyweight boxing champion. "He suddenly goes on stage."

Cassius Clay, alias Muhammad Ali, is the first to acknowledge that he is a big ham, although ham or any form of pork is an obscene word to his Black Muslim religion.

"It's just a gimmick," the champs confides when he escapes from the hurly-burly and relaxes in the steamy broom closet that serves as his dressing room at the Fifth Street Gym.

"I yell and I rant. I bang my cane. I run off my big mouth. People think I'm crazy until I make good my boasts—like last year against that big ugly bear, Sonny Liston."

"Some people get offended by my bragging. But they talk about me, and they come out hoping to see me get my head knocked off."

CHISOX ROLL TO 7-3 TWINS EDGE

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Don Buford's three-run homer in the sixth inning sparked the Chicago White Sox to a 7-3 victory over the Minnesota Twins Friday in a baseball exhibition game.

Pete Ward hit a solo homer for the White Sox in the seventh.

The Twins held a 2-1 lead going into the sixth on Jimmie Hall's run-scoring triple in the second and Bob Allison's leadoff homer in the fifth. Andy Valdespino homered for the Twins in the eighth inning.

Joe Horlen hurled the first six innings for the White Sox and got credit for the victory. Hoyt Wilhelm finished up.

For Minnesota, Camilo Pascual allowed one unearned run in his three-inning stint. The Sox tallied four times in three innings off rookie Jim Olom, and their final two runs came off Jim Perry.

Two Olympians On Squad Picked To Play Russia

DENVER (AP) — Only two players from the 1964 U.S. Olympic basketball squad have been selected for the 26-man squad from which a team will be picked later for a series with Russia.

The two are Princeton's All-America Bill Bradley, and Larry Brown of the Akron Good-years, who lost their National AAU crown in the tournament here this week.

The squad was announced Friday by John McLendon, National AAU basketball chairman. The first game with the Russians will be at Las Vegas, Nev., April 19.

Three players were picked from the Armed Services All-Stars, who won the National AAU title Wednesday night — guards Vern Benson and Cal Fowler and forward Don Reid.

Four were picked from the Denver team that finished second — center Rod Holst, forwards Al Dillard and Randy Richardson and guard Flynn Robinson. Richardson and Robinson played at the University of Wyoming this season.

Others selected were: Forwards — Roger Brown, Dayton, Ohio; Dave Stallworth, Arkansas City, Kan.; Bob Ray Carey, Bartlesville, Okla.; Warren Fouts, Akron; Dan Wolters, San Francisco Athletic Club; Walter Fraser, Grambling, La., College, and Jerry Sloan, Evansville, Ind., College.

Centers — Ollie Johnson, San Francisco; Nate Bowman, Arkansas City; Walt Sahm, Brownstown, Ind.; Jim Fox, Jacksonville, Fla.; Don Anderson, Augsburg, Minn., College and Ed Molis, Lewis College, Lockport, Ill.

Guards — Bobby Rascoe, Bartlesville; Cecil Tuttle, Akron; Art Williams, Long Beach, Calif., and James Brovelli, San Francisco.

NAMED ARIZONA GRID COACH

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP) — Andrew C. MacDonald, 35, backfield offense coach at Iowa, was named head football coach at Arizona State College Friday.

He succeeds Max Spilbury, who resigned in a scandal over rigging of classroom attendance records.

Lopez Sure Chisox Can Beat Yanks

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — A visitor from Arizona braced Al Lopez in the Chicago White Sox dugout and asked:

"I've been talking with Birdie Tebbets in the Cleveland camp and he thinks the Yankees really can be beaten this year. What do you think?"

Lopez grinned and answered: "That is what I have been saying for years. I took a lot of kidding about it but I really meant it. This year I think the White Sox and Baltimore are the teams to beat. Of course, we're not overlooking the Yankees."

Al's optimistic forecasts have been taken with a grain of salt in the past. But he came so close last year when his Sox finished second, one game behind the Yanks that it may be wise to listen.

"I think we should have a little more punch with John Romano and Bill Skowron all the way," he said. "I know last year they were killing us with left-handers. The Yankees brought Steve Hamilton out of the bullpen and he beat us twice. They even beat us with Bud Daley, just coming back from arm trouble."

Can Bounce Back
"Our team showed me last year it could bounce back better than any team I ever saw. I said last year that 98 games would be enough for the pennant. We got 98 but finished second. I'd settle for 98 again."

Lopez is particularly high on rookie center fielder Ken Berry and Romano, a catcher he traded away after winning the 1959 pennant when the club was looking for instant power.

"We have had two big surprises in training camp," said Lopez. "Tommy John and Tom Agee. John, a left-hander, pitched five shutout innings against the Yankees and might make it as a starter. Agee has been doing a fine job in the outfield."

"Our infield should be better. Last year Pete Ware came up with a bad back and we had to shift Don Buford from second to third base, a strange position. Ward is fine this year and Buford will be under less strain at second. Rom Hansen at short and Skowron at first are the others."

Outfield Likeliest
The outfield will include Berry in center and Floyd Robinson in either left or center. Danny Cater or Dave Nicholson could be in left if Nick can conquer his strikeout problem. If Agee makes it he will play right and Robinson will go to left.

Smoky Burgess probably will stay as a left-handed pinch hitter and Lopez may keep Gerry McNertney, Bill Heath or Jimmie Schaffer behind Romano. J.C. Martin is a borderline case. The pitching is the solid corps of the club. Lopez expects Peters to be even better. Pizzaro has been holding out, as usual, in Puerto Rico, but is expected to be ready by opening day because he pitched all winter.

Joel Horlen, a 13-game winner as a rookie, shows great promise as does Bruce Howard. Johnny Buzhardt and probably John are the other starters.

Dave DeBusschere reported late after coaching the Detroit NBA team and will have to hustle to catch up. The bullpen is in good hands with the two knucklers, Hoyt Wilhelm and Eddie Fisher.

AND AWAY WE GO—Elgin Baylor (22) and Walt Hazzard (42) of the Los Angeles Lakers look a bit surprised as Bud Olsen (24) of the Cincinnati Royals goes up for a rebound —and keeps going.

RIDING HIGH—Mrs. Joan O'Shea is aboard William Haggin Perry's Jacinto as the promising 3-year-old exercises during the early morning at Belmont Park in New York.

OLD FOES—The experts say the Boston Celtics and Los Angeles Lakers will meet in the National Basketball Association championship playoffs next month and, if they do, it means another duel between two of the best—Jerry West (44) of the Lakers and Bill Russell (6) of the Celtics.

PALMER SHARPENING UP

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Arnold Palmer says his chances of winning the Masters Golf Tournament a fifth time are "not so good unless I get the lead out of my britches and get some work done on my game."

Palmer practiced at the Chattanooga Golf and Country Club Thursday.

"I'm just beginning to sharpen my game for the Masters," he said. "I played at Jacksonville last week and didn't do well at all."
